The Energy Crisis Is Combatted Here

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Ulster County's office buildings, municipal centers, schools and factories will be a little colder and darker this winter as concern mounts over an impending nationwide energy crisis.

Spurred by President Nixon's television appeal Wednesday night, virtually every private and public institution in Ulster County has implemented plans to conserve the precious supply of fuel and electricity.

No one seems to be claiming hardship in this united effort to preserve energy. A spokesman at Benedictine Hospital said today that department heads have been instructed to reduce thermostat readings to 68 degrees in non patient areas, and 65 degrees in storerooms. Half of the hospital's corridor lights will be doused, and security personnel will patrol the buildings regularly to turn off unnecessary lights. The spokesmen said hospital officials may also consider reducing temperatures in patient areas, but only if the health of the patients would not be affected.

Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, today announced a seven-point plan that will be implemented — "effective immediately" — to conserve fuel and electricity in county buildings.

Savago said temperatures will be reduced in all buildings to 68 degrees during the daytime hours, and 60 degrees at night in unoccupied buildings. In addition, all county buildings except the Infirmary and Jail will close this winter at 5 p.m., and no outside organization will be permitted to use the Ulster County Office Building after 5 p.m. Committees of the Ulster County Legislature have been asked not to use the County Office Building for nighttime meetings unless urgently required.

Employes of the Ulster County Highway Department, Savago continued, have been instructed that county vehicles are not to be driven in excess of 50 miles per hour, and that all engines are to be turned off when the vehicles aren't in use.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig said today that temperatures in all city municipal buildings will be lowered to 68 degrees, and that personnel have been asked to try to reduce electricity consumption by 50 per cent in their departments.

Meanwhile, City Planner Robert Pritchard and City Clerk Louis DeCicco were to represent Mayor Koenig at a meeting in New York City today with federal officials on ways for municipalities to conserve energy. Koenig said that information collected at today's meeting could be used as the basis for additional energy-saving recommendations.

Students and teachers, as well, may have to dress a bit warmer this winter. Louis A. Salzmann, Superintendent of the Kingston Consolidated School District, today directed that all thermostats in the district's buildings be lowered to between 65 and 68 degrees. The Board of Education and district officials are expected to survey all after-school activities to determine what might be eliminated should the energy crisis become critically acute this winter.

Maintenance personnel in the Onteora Central School District have been instructed to caulk all windows and doors to keep the cold air out and the warm air in. Thermostats will be initially lowered to 68 degrees in all buildings. Superintendent of Schools Dr. Frank M. Marlow said after school activities will probably not be expanded this winter, as requested. And, he said it is likely school bus drivers will be ordered not to exceed 50 miles per hour on their routes.

At the State University College at New Paltz, thermostats in all offices and classrooms will be lowered to 68 degrees during the day and 62 degrees at night, and lighting will be reduced to "minimal standards." The temperatures of the heating plant furnaces will be reduced from 400 degrees to 360 degrees, and a spokesman said that measure is expected to "reduce considerably" the two million gallons of No. 6 fuel that were used on campus last year.

At Ulster County Community College, thermostats will be lowered to 68 degrees during the week and 55 degrees on the weekends; outside lighting will be cut by 50 per cent; and a special committee has been appointed to consider other alternatives, including the possible rescheduling of some classes.

International Business Machines, the largest industrial complex in Ulster County, has also instituted steps to save fuel and electricity. Temperatures will be lowered to 68 degrees, plans have been implemetned to reduce fuel consumption by ten per cent, and all unproductive lighting will be doused during the third shift.

And finally, energy conservation will have an aesthetic impact on the local area this year. The Uptown Businessmen's Association has decided it won't light its Christmas decorations this holiday season.

Nader Blames Oil Industry

By MATT SPIRENG

POUGHKEEPSIE

Speaking before a large crowd of students and area residents at Dutchess Community College Thursday afternoon, consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged that the present oil shortage in the U.S. is part of a "daring strategy" by the oil industry.

Nader charged that the industry has led the country into a short term oil shortage scare to gain concessions for itself such as higher prices, the opening of the Alaska pipe line, offshore drilling, and a relaxation of pollution reguiations.

Nader said the industry has always been able to accurately predict the nation's oil needs, and has always been able to supply them. He said this winter's needs could have been supplied had the industry asked the government to increase oil imports.

Nader said the government itself moved to increase imports this spring, "but by then it was too late."

Nader's charges against the oil industry came during his talk on "Environmental Hazards: Man-Made and Man-Remedied," which lasted more than an hour.

In his remarks concerning this country's pollution problems, Nader again placed a major portion of the blame on large industries.

"We have an economy built on waste, that grows on waste, that even prospers on waste," Nader said.

Nader termed pollution a "deadly, silent form of cumulative violence," and said everyone must become more aware of the dangerous pollutants which are being released into the air and water.

Nader said the nation's entire technology must be changed to combat pollution and reduce waste, and charged that a double standard is sometimes used in the approch toward pollution control. "It's a crime for an individual to relieve himself in the Hudson River, but it's apparently not a crime for a corporation to relieve itself in the river," Nader said.

"There is no separation between people and the air or water," Nader said. "An insult to the air or water is inescapably going to be an insult to our health."

"We can't wait like industry wants us to wait for people to fall on their knees in the streets of New York City and with their last words say 'It was carbon monoxide . . .'" Nader said.

Nader asserted that concerted action could clean up pollution problems in this nation. "We could virtually wipe out air and water pollution in ten years if we really wanted to," he said.

Nader called on the students in attendance at the talk to attempt to form a group patterned on the Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) which he formed in 1970 in Washington, D.C.

He said such groups which have been in existence in some states for two years have been able to exert tremendous amounts of pressure on the government and industry toward solving some of the nation's problems.

Nader also lashed out at the development of nuclear power plants, citing the possibility of massive destruction and "catastrophic dangers" should something go wrong.

"We must develop solar and geothermal energy as the sources of the future," Nader said.

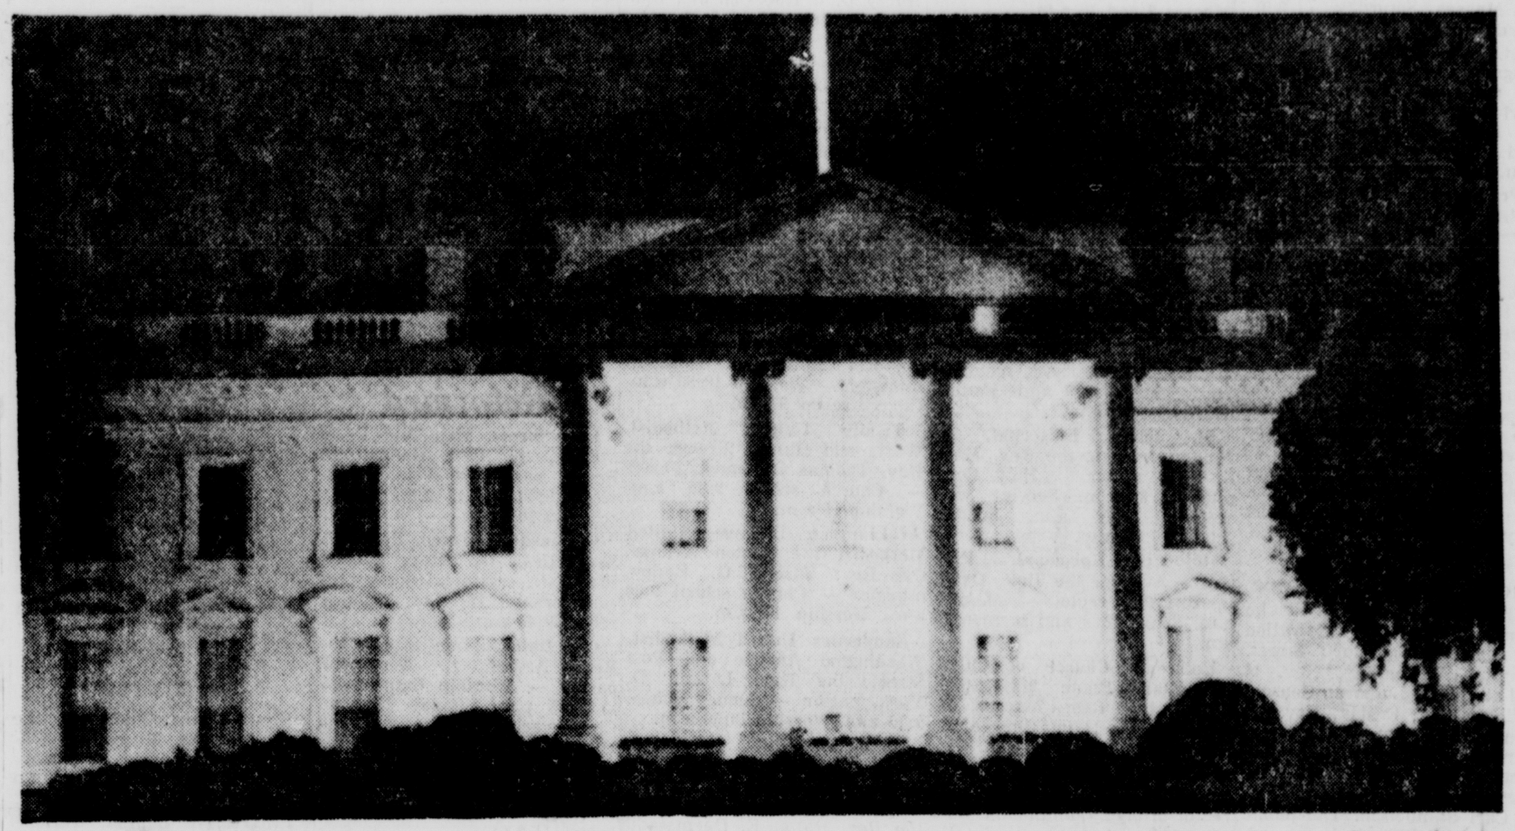

"You might ask why we haven't put money into the development of solar energy," he said. "It's because the oil industry doesn't have title to the sun."

"And there is no sun depletion allowance" the outspoken consumer advocate added.

But while he was most critical of the energy waste by large industry, Nader also urged that individuals conserve energy in every way possible.

LIGHTS OUT—The East and West wings of the White House were darkened Thursday night as President Nixon and his family personally joined in the nationwide effort to conserve energy. A presidential spokesman said that most exterior lights at the White House will be dimmed at 10 p.m. instead of burning throughout the night, and that thermostats will be lowered to 68 degrees. The lights that illuminate Washington's monuments will also be doused two hours earlier than usual. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Legislature Seeks Action to Stop Esopus Pollution

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Claiming that the New York City Department of Water Supply is polluting the Esopus Creek causing a decline in the number of large rainbow trout to the point where they are "almost non-existent," five Ulster County Legislators, led by C. Freeman Lasher (R-Dist. 1) are seeking action to prevent further pollution.

The Ulster County Legislature, which met Thusday night, agreed to seek an injunction to prevent the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas & Electricity from discharging water into the Esopus Creek that they claim is polluted with mud and silt.

Lasher said that during the course of the summer of 1970, 1971 and 1972, the city allowed water to flow from the Schoharie Reservoir through the Shandaken Tunnel into the Esopus Creek and into the Ashokan Reservoir.

He pointed out that the water has been laden with large quantities of mud and silt and that therefore the west basin of the Ashokan Reservoir has been physically reduced.

Lasher, along with Legislators Ernest J. Gardner, Clifford Snyder, S. Robert Kelder and Philip R. Davis, all members of the Conservation Committee, maintain that the mud and silt is detrimental to all wildlife which depends on the creek and reservoir for its natural feeding ground and breeding place. It is particularly detrimental to fish and all other forms of acquatic life, they claim.

Explaining that the natural spring breeding run of large rainbow trout has declined during the past three years to the point where it is practically non-existent, they said that prior to 1970, the spring breeding run of rainbow trout has been a natural phenomenon which had occurred annually uninterrupted during the previous years.

The board therefore joins with the Federated Sportsmen's Club of Ulster County and Trout Unlimited in seeking to enjoin the city from discharging polluted water into the creek and they ask further that the injunction be in force for an indefinite period of time until the condition is corrected and that when the Shandaken Tunnel is again operated, that the water discharged from it will be clear and wholesome.

Lasher, who is chairman of the Conservation Committee, asked that the resolution be forwarded to the State Department of Conservation. Only Legislator Richard D. Nace (R-Dist. 2), an employe of the City of New York Department of Water Supply, abstained from voting on the measure.

Legislative discussion also centered on another problem raised by Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2), who is seeking an investigation of the State Family Court Act as well as the Family Court system itself.

Recalling that during a recent one-year period 64 per cent of the youths involved in homicides and 92 per cent involved in rape or arson in New York State, who were convicted, were also let off without a sentence, he asked that investigation be conducted with an eye toward improving the Family Court system.

Elmendorf told of complaints coming from his own constituents who have been plagued by burglaries committed by juveniles and told of one youngster who had been arrested "seven times previously" who was recently picked up again after committing another burglary in the Town of Ulster.

The county board agreed to prevail upon the county's district attorney, county attorney and state legislators to make "a complete and determined effort to provide the necessary funding for a state legislative investigation." Elmendorf referred specifically to an investigation which has already been called for by Assemblman Alfred A. Dellibovi of Queens.

In other action, the Ulster County Legislature approved bids totaling $186,596 for the remodeling and renovation work in the County Court House and to provide for new offices for the Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt.

RECKONING DAY—Six of the original Watergate defendants, their bugging of Democratic headquarters all but forgotten in the scandal that followed, are shown in this composite photo. Their sentencing marks end of the first chapter of the Watergate story that began nearly 17 months ago. They are (Top, L to R); E. Howard Hunt; James W. McCord Jr.; and Frank Sturgis. Bottom row (L to R) are: Bernard L. Barker; Eugenio Martinez; and Virgillio R. Gonzales. The six men are shown in file photos. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Mideast Agreement Announced

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today announced a six-point Egyptian-Israeli military agreement which is expected to lead to the start of permanent peace talks within weeks.

Kissinger, in a letter to U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, disclosed that the peace plan which he initiated in consultations with both sides has been accepted by both President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel.

The agreement provides:

—Egypt and Israel agree to observe scrupulously the cease-fire called for by the U.N. Security Council.

—Both sides agree that discussions between them will begin immediately to settle the question of the return to the Oct. 22 positions in the framework of agreement on the disengagement and separation of forces under the auspices of the U.N.

Sen. J. William Fulbright wants U.S. and Russia to use persuasion to guarantee Mideast peace settlement. Story page 22.

—The town of Suez will receive daily supplies of food, water and medicine. All wounded civilians in the town of Suez will be evacuated.

—There shall be no impediments to the movement of nonmilitary supplies to the east bank of the Suez.

—The Israeli checkpoints on the Cairo-Suez road will be replaced by U.N. checkpoints. At the Suez end of the road, Israeli officers can participate with the U.N. to supervise the nonmilitary nature of the cargo at the bank of the canal.

—As soon as the U.N. check points are established on the Cairo-Suez road, there will be an exchange of all prisoners of war including wounded.

Meanwhile, Egypt said today it shot down two Israeli warplanes near the Suez Canal and Cairo and Tel Aviv argued over a key point of the compromise Middle East peace plan worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The Israeli military command said Egyptian surface-to-air missiles downed one Israeli reconnaissance plane near the Suez Canal. The first plane reported shot down by Egypt since the Oct. 22 Middle East cease-fire. The command said two crewmen parachuted over Egyptian territory.

An Egyptian military communique said two Israeli Phantom jets tried to "raid our positions west of the canal." It said two pilots were captured.

The eruption of fighting followed by only one day optimistic reports that the compromise peace plan worked out during Kissinger's five-nation Middle East tour had been accepted by Israel and Egypt and would cement the cease-fire.

U.S. officials maintained Thursday night that both Cairo and Tel Aviv would announce their formal approval of peace plan later today.

The officials also said that Kissinger's 14-hour stay in Saudi Arabia failed to convince King Faisal, leader of the Arab oil boycott, to resume petroleum shipments to the United States.

Watergate 6 Sentenced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt was given a minimum sentence of 2½ years in prison and five other original Watergate defendants were assessed lesser terms today by Judge John J. Sirica for their roles in the break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

James W. McCord, like Hunt one of the leaders of the burglary, drew a one to five year sentence, the same minimum sentence as three Miami area men. Hunt's maximum sentence was eight years, plus a fine of $10,000.

Since the three Miamians have been behind bars nearly 11 months, their sentences may expire in time for their release before Christmas.

Bernard L. Barker, a fourth member of what their lawyers referred to as the Miami area "soldiers," received a sentence of 18 months minimum and six years at the most, apparently because he recruited the other three.

Sirica said it was his intention that McCord spend at least a year in jail. McCord, unlike the others, has been free on bond for the past year.

Two months after his conviction, he wrote Sirica that he wanted to tell what he knew of the Watergate break-in on June 17, 1972, and the subsequent cover-up.

Minimum sentences of one to four years were given Frank A. Sturgis, Virgilio R. Gonzalez and Eugenio R. Martinez.

The Miami area men and Hunt pleaded guilty early in the January trial. McCord and G. Gordon Liddy, like Hunt a former White House employe, were convicted.

Liddy who has refused to talk, was given a minimum term of 6 years, 8 months and fined $48,000.

He was given an additional sentence of 8 to 18 months for refusing to testify before a federal grand jury. He also faces contempt of Congress charges.

Hunt's lawyer, Sydner Sachs, told Sirica that Hunt's health is deteriorating and that forcing him to spend any more time in jail might "do further harm to him."

Both Sachs and lawyers for the other defendents pleaded with Sirica for leniency, saying all believed they had been part of a legitimate government operation.

"If it was a crime, it was a crime of patriotism," Sachs said.

Hunt, the last of the six to be sentenced, was pale as he stood before Sirica.

McCord's lawyer, Bernard Finsterwald, pleaded for leniency, saying McCord "alone came forward and did so when pressed by your honor to tell all."

Marlboro Man Is Critical

MARLBORO — A 23-year-old Marlboro resident was listed in critical condition at Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie today after the pickup truck he was driving "completely disintegrated" after it struck a utility pole on Route 9W in the Town of Marlborough.

Highland State Police said Barry L. Cypher of Western Avenue suffered severe head and internal injuries in the 2 a.m. accident.

According to troopers, Cypher was proceding north on Route 9W when he failed to negotiate a curve, ran off the right side of the road and struck a utility pole. The truck spun and rolled some 200 feet after striking the pole, completely disintegrating in the process.

Cypher is in the intensive care unit at Vassar Hospital.

Local Deaths

Mrs. Hazel Deyo Houghtaling

Mrs. Hazel Deyo Houghtaling, 82, of Sawkill Road, Kingston, formerly of Port Ewen, died this morning after a lengthy illness. Mrs. Houghtaling had worked as a nurses' aide until her retirement 13 years ago. She was a member of Port Ewen Reformed Church and Dorcas Society. Born Oct. 5, 1891 at Catskill, she was a daughter of the late Isaac and Alice Dedrick Deyo and wife of Augustus Houghtaling, who died in 1960. Mrs. Houghtaling is survived by three daughters, Grace, wife of Warren Swarthout, Port Ewen; Viola, wife of Vincent Harris, Cheshire, Conn.; and Elnora, wife of Robert McSpirit, Kingston. Seven grandchildren, 10 great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews also survive. Entrusted to the care of the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, funeral services will be held at Keyser Port Ewen Chapel, Broadway and Stout Avenue on Monday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Allen Jensen, pastor of Port Ewen Reformed Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery. Friends may call at Keyser Port Ewen Chapel Saturday 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

David Pomerantz

Funeral services were held Sunday at Park West Chapel, New York City for David Pomerantz of Kerhonkson. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery, Lodi, N.J. Mr. Pomerantz died November 1. He was a resident of Kerhonkson for 28 years and was self-employed in the hard wood flooring business. He is survived by his widow Ethel; four sons, Martin, Los Angeles, Calif.; Leonard, New City; Howard, Kerhonkson; Aaron, Wawarsing; three sisters, Bessie Jettelson, Sylvia Gage, both of New York; Miriam Pacht, Kerhonkson; and three brothers, George, Sidney, both of New York and Edward of Kerhonkson. Ten grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Florence Earl

Mrs. Florence Earl, formerly of Binnewater, died at Miami, Fla., Thursday evening following a long illness. A native of Brooklyn, she was a daughter of the late William and Caroline Pymann Fleming. Her husband, William Earl, died several years ago. Surviving are two sons, Harold Earl of Richmond Hill and Arnold Earl. Funeral arrangements will be announced by the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale.

Charge Reduced Against Man

ELLENVILLE — Charges against Jack Weathers, 44, of Hurleyville, who allegedly removed a spent shotgun shell from the scene of an Oct. 31 murder, were reduced in Ellenville Village Court Thursday night on the recommendation of Assistant D.A. Douglas Hunt.

Weathers was originally charged with tampering with physical evidence, a felony. He is now charged with obstructing governmental administration, a misdemeanor. Weathers was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $250 bail following the court appearance before Ellenville Village Justice Ronald Elias, pending a reappearance Nov. 27.

George Calhoun, 35, has been ordered held for grand jury action on a murder charge stemming from the shooting death of his wife, Sarah, 33, at their 181 Center Street apartment Oct. 31.

Poughkeepsie Man Arrested

NEW PALTZ — Robert Duncan, 30, of Poughkeepsie was charged with first degree assault by New Paltz Village Police Thursday night after he allegedly stabbed an employee at the Homestead bar in New Paltz with a broken beer glass.

Police said the stabbing followed an altercation between Duncan and Robert E. Prendergast, 20, who resides at the State University at New Paltz.

Prendergast suffered a shoulder wound and was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance. He was treated and released at the hospital.

Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, Duncan was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail pending a reappearance in court tonight.

Esopus Lists Leaves Schedule

TOWN OF ESOPUS — The Town of Esopus Highway Department has announced its Fall schedule for collecting bagged leaves.

Leaves will be collected Monday (Nov. 12) in Port Ewen, Connelly, Sleightsburg, Salem Street to Route 213 and all of River Road.

On Wednesday (Nov. 14) leaves will be collected in the remaining sections of the town, including all state, county and town highways in St. Remy, Rifton, Ulster Park, Esopus, West Park and West Esopus.

Residents have been urged not to burn their leaves. The bagged leaves should be left at the curbside prior to the collection date.

Library Closed

Kingston Area Library's main building will be closed Saturday due to a special project planned for that day, according to Caroline B. Matzen, library director. However, the Children's Library will be open Saturday as usual from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. with a special program on rocks starting at 2 p.m.

Education Performance Director Klepak:

'State's School Boards Are Pushovers for Unions'

By TIM SCHUSTER

FISHKILL

Daniel Klepak has told school boards across New York State that they are "pushovers" for teachers' unions, and they will "have to improve."

He addressed the Mid-Hudson School Board Institute at the Holiday Inn, Fishkill, Thursday night on the primary mission he has set out to accomplish as director of the State Office of Education Performance Review—achieving cost effectiveness in education.

Speaking to reporters prior to the dinner meeting, Klepak characterized his four-month old position as a sort of compromise between Governor Rockefeller's original call for an "inspector general for education" and the "horror" this was greeted with by some segments of the State Education Department.

He reports directly to the governor, but has no power other than through influence and making recommendations to school boards and the state legislature.

Klepak, injecting wry humor into his remarks, appears to see himself as a man called upon to fulfill a duty to keep education costs down because he agrees with the Rand Corporation conclusion that "real changes in public education can only come from outside. "Everyone within the system appears too comfortable and is under great pressure to maintain the status quo."

He told reporters, with tongue in cheek, that he feels the success of a program is proportional to the number of organized, vested interests that oppose it.

While pointing out that he has found many school boards do not invest their money wisely (i.e. putting large sums of money in checking accounts), and admitting that he does not know whether the "funnelling off" of money exists only in education or also in other fields of public trust, he criticized boards for wanting the State Education Department to tell them what to do in order to avoid local pressures and then adopting a "hands off— just keep mailing the checks" attitude.

He is also attempting to find some answer to the puzzling question of why school districts with seemingly similar students differ widely in their ability to teach children to read.

"There are glaringly different reading scores in different places in the state," he asserted, adding that prior to this appointment he was of the opinion that bad reading was linked to inner-city problems. "Now I don't think so," he said.

Klepak expressed the opinion that "voters are not idiots," saying he had "difficulty with the idea that professionals know best."

One concrete outcome of this stance has been reflected in Governor Rockefeller's signature on a bill he had previously vetoed limiting the number of times a school board can put a construction bond issue before district voters.

The Fleischmann Commission report said that regional bus transportation is the answer to keeping costs down in that area, and Klepak said that this was not necessarily so, citing figures indicating that individual district bidding can often result in a lower figure for services because there is more room for competition.

He commented that voters really have no say in district budgets, as they cannot affect anything except "unimportant peripheral expenditures" as the state mandates up to 95 per cent of the board's budget.

And he said he will suggest legislation in a "month or so" that will change that fact.

Klepak also said he will come out with a suggestion shortly to help the room shortage in schools, saying it will be a "variation" on a plan to run schools year round.

And, justifying his appointment to a position that was surrounded by controversy, Klepak characterized as "absurd" the fact that the State Education Department is not directly subject to the governor.

In a recent statement to the New York State School Board Association he said, "School boards, superintendents, principals and teachers will have formal organizations to fight for their interests. I regard my primary constituents as school children and taxpayers."

Tax Rate Drop for Town

TOWN OF KINGSTON

A hold-the-line budget for 1974 will mean a small decrease in tax rates for Town of Kingston residents.

Figures announced at Thursday night's public hearing on the budget showed a total of $58,032 to be raised by taxes, up just $990 from this year's figures. The tax rate will drop from $33.91 to $33.63 per thousand of assessed valuation, however, due to an increase in total valuation in the town.

Supervisor Kenneth Whispell said that the amount to be raised by taxes for the highway fund would be $32,029, up $4,480, and for the general fund would be $15,522, down $3,260 from this year, increasing the budget total from $57,042 to $58,032.

Whispell went over the budget item by item for a sparse audience of eight town residents and said that a special meeting of the town board would be called within a few days to adopt the budget, which must be adopted before November 20.

A series of salary increases is included in the proposed budget, including $200 for the supervisor, $300 each for the two councilmen, $400 for the town clerk, $75 for the tax collector, and $600 for Town Justice Richard Alberstadt, a total of $1,875 salary increases.

Payments on a new truck accounted for the raise in highway department budget figures, and a reduction in municipal indebeteness, including $6,000 paid off on the town garage, reduced the general fund figure for 1974 Whispell said.

Olive Adopts Budget for 1974

TOWN OF OLIVE

A tax decrease may greet Town of Olive residents in 1974, after the Town Board adopted a $627,382 operating budget Wednesday night.

The amount to be raised by taxes in 1974 is $395,8[illegible] about $18,000 less than in 1973. Depending on the tax rate determined by the Ulster County Legislature, taxes could decline for Olive residents next year, according to Town Cerk Oliver Crawford.

Estimated revenues for 1974 are $91,121, in addition to an unexpended balance from 1973 of $139,952.

The new budget also includes some salary increases for town officers. The new 1974 salaries include: Superivsor, $7,000; Councilman, $2,500 each; Superintendent of Highways, $11,000; Town Clerk, $4,500; Assessor chairman, $4,500 and Assessors, $2,500 each.

The tax collector's salary, proposed for $3,000, was reduced to last year's $2,500 level at her suggestion. She said the work load, which actually covers only two months of the year, does not warrant the increased salary. The tax collector is Margaret Kunkle.

Copies of the town budget are available for inspection at the town clerk's office.

Economists See Spring Price Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current decline in grocery prices will continue until early next year, predict Agriculture Department economists, but by spring they will begin rising moderately.

But the experts say that the predicted increase in food prices between January and June will not reach the record levels of the past August.

Per capita food consumption in 1973 will fall about 1.5 per cent below 1972 levels, the sharpest decline in 15 years, because consumers are getting into the habit of eating less to save money, officials said. Meat consumption will be off 6 per cent, the sharpest drop in 25 years, they said.

The "food situation" summary said prices for the last three months of 1973 will be "relatively stable" and probably a bit lower than last summer, primarily because of a drop in meat and poultry prices.

One expert estimated the January-March increase would be 1 to 2 per cent as meat supplies decline temporarily and other prices continue to advance. But he described that as "rather moderate" compared to the 5.7 per cent increase during the same period this year.

The report said retail prices may level off again in April-June 1974, as meat and poultry supplies increase to offset higher prices for other foods. By June, the specialists said, prices may be about the same as this year's July-September quarter, which means they will be below the all-time peak reached last August.

Although the predicted increase next year was described as "moderate," the report said first-quarter 1974 prices may average 13 per cent above the same period this year and second-quarter prices may be 8 to 10 per cent above last spring.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks were mixed today with the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials down a fraction but advancing Big Board issues holding a moderate lead over decliners.

Analysts were undecided about the trend of the market for the near term. They said factors which had driven the market higher for the past two sessions were not conclusive enough to say which way the market would go today.

Chrysler down ¼ at 20¾ was the Big Board volume leader, followed by Pittson, a coal company, up ⅜ at 30⅜.

Stock prices closed higher Thursday for the second straight day following seven days of heavy losses.

Analysts said investors in the institutionally dominated market were relieved by the partial Mideast agreements and President Nixon's reassurance that steps were being taken to ease the energy crisis.

The Dow Jones blue chip indicator closed Thursday up 12.57 at 932.65. It had closed up ⅞ points the previous session.

Advancing Big Board issues had a 2 to 1 lead over decliners Thursday in a strong trading volume of 19.65 million shares.

State Police Press Search For 3 Center Escapees

BEACON — The search for three men, including a convicted murderer, who escaped from the Correctional Center for Medical Services in Beacon Wednesday night continued today.

While roadblocks have been lifted, Fishkill State Police said the manhunt is being concentrated in three areas — New York City, Rochester and in the Beacon area.

Teletype messages have been sent to all police agencies in the state warning that the men may be armed, and that all should be considered dangerous.

Police said today the three men escaped by sawing through a screened window at the Correctional Center, formerly known as Mattewan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

The three escapees have been identified as Jose Burgos, 29, of New York City; Carlo Jiminez, 23, of the Bronx; and James Griffin, 30, of Rochester.

Burgos is a convicted murderer; Jiminez was convicted of rape and manslaughter; and Griffin was convicted of armed robbery.

A fourth escapee was recaptured a short time after the breakout, which was discovered at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said there is a possibility the three men still at large may have split up and fled to New York City. All three are of Hispanic origin.

License Is Suspended

ELLENVILLE — The New York State Liquor Authority has suspended the Nevele County Club hotel liquor license for 30 days as the result of the conviction of the owners, Ben J. and Julius Slutsky, on charges of filing false income tax returns.

The suspension will begin Nov. 19 and will continue until Dec. 19. The violation charged by the Liquor Authority is "improper conduct of co-licensees" leading to the income tax charges.

The Slutsky brothers were convicted in U.S. District Court on January 9 on multiple counts of federal income tax evasion. Appeals have been lodged.

Penny Social

The second annual penny social of the Town of Ulster Lions Club is scheduled for Saturday night at Ulster Hose No. 5 Firehouse, Ulster Avenue Mall. The event, set for 6:30 o'clock, will again help the Lions in carrying out their many and varied civic projects within the township. Refreshments and awards will feature the social. The public is invited.

Kingston City Schools Face $52,452 Fuel Bill Deficit

By CARL GRAHAM

PORT EWEN

Kingston City Schools Consolidated faces an estimated deficit of more than $52,000 in fuel bills for the remainder of the school year.

Mrs. Evelyn Corsones, chairman of the business management committee, announced at the school board's Thursday night meeting in the Port Ewen school that estimated costs for the three grades of oil used in the district, based on current prices, would be $149,788 for the remainder of the school year, $52,452 above the budgeted figure.

Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of schools, said administrators are studying several measures to reduce fuel oil bills. School principals have been told to reduce thermostats to between 65 and 68 degrees and still further at night, and the district is studying the possible curtailment or elimination of after-school programs that often keep buildings open until 11 p.m., Salzmann said. He said a list of recommended procedures would be drawn up and presented to the board for approval.

Mrs. Corsones said after the meeting that the district would have to meet the fuel bill deficit by a combination of use of funds from the contingency account, savings on other items, and budget transfers.

Salzmann said that snow day procedures would be unchanged from last year, with announcement of school closings being made during early morning hours over local radio stations. He said a change would be made in cases where shcool opening is delayed. Announcement of definite new starting times last year caused confusion, he said so the district will announce this year only that school opening procedures will be set back one hour, without giving any definite times for the various procedures.

Salzmann announced that Daniel Galyon, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Galyon of 130 Fair Street, Kingston, has been named a winner of a 1973 Achievement Award in Writing by the National Council of Teachers of English. He was among 850 high school juniors selected from 6,400 contestants whose names will be submitted by NCTE to admissions officers of various colleges for possible scholarship aid.

In response to an order of State Supreme Court, the board passed a resolution refunding $5,444.72 in 1971-72 school taxes to Hudson Valley Shopping Associates.

In response to a question from the audience, Harold E. Keator Jr., school board president, said: "The board doesn't feel it can make a public statement at this time" concerning the proposed site for a new high school off Delaware Avenue in Kingston.

Alan Van Heusen, president of the newly-formed Ulster County School Bus Drivers Association, said his group had had an "unsatisfactory" meeting with Kenneth Hyatt, assistant superintendent, to discuss the dismissal of Mrs. Marilyn Playford, who Van Heusen said had been dismissed for allegedly refusing to drive her bus into Lakeview Court from New Salem Road in the Town of Esopus, claiming it was unsafe and that it would endanger the lives of pupils on the bus. Van Heusen said his group feels that Mrs. Playford had been dismissed unfairly, and said that Hyatt had refused to allow her to attend the meeting to discuss her dismissal.

The board reduced the price of milk to six cents for one-half pint and eight cents for one-third pint after learing that the Department of Agriculture had reinstated the Special Milk Program subsidy of four cents per half pint for school lunch programs.

Senior Citizens Asked For Early Reservations

KINGSTON

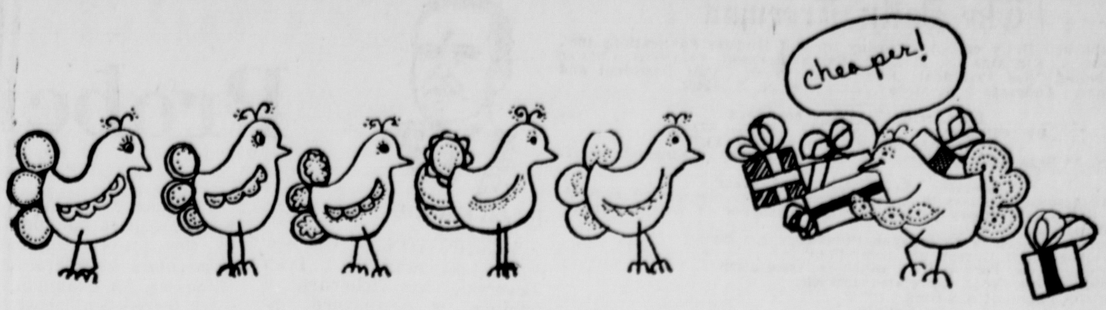

Senior citizens of the Kingston area are reminded to make reservations for the sixth annual senior citizen's Thanksgiving dinner to be held at the new Salvation Army Citadel at 35 Cedar Street, Kingston, on Saturday, Nov. 17.

Reservations for the dinner may be made by calling 338-0933 on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, Nov. 12-13-14. There is no charge.

The annual event is sponsored once again jointly by the Ulster Kiwanis Club, the Salvation Army, and the Senior Citizens' Advisory Council.

Serving begins promptly at noon. Facilities available at the new building make it possible to serve 200 guests at one sitting.

Alexander Yosman, coordinator of the Senior Citizens' Advisory Council, asked senior citizens from outlying communities planning to come by chartered bus to advise the Council promptly so that proper arrangements can be made.

"I'd like to sell you a 1978 Ford."

Look, what I'm featuring right now is my brand new lineup of 1974 Fords. I know that's what you're interested in. And that's what I hope you'll buy.

But my business depends on people who keep coming home to Ford. Frankly, I'd really like to sell you every car you buy from here on in.

The only way I have a chance of doing that is to keep you satisfied today, tomorrow, and every time I see you.

So I'll start by giving you the right car for your 1974 needs.

Whether it's a shiny new Pinto, Maverick, Torino, Galaxie, LTD, T-Bird, the totally new Mustang II, or even a good used car—I'll make sure you get what you want and what you need.

And I'll give you service you can count on. Not only if some part needs fixing, but if some procedure or attitude needs fixing.

All I ask is that you come on down and take a look. If you have kids, bring 'em.

If I treat you right in 1974—who knows?—maybe I'll sell one of them a 1982 Ford.

Daylight Saving Time

President Nixon's proposal Wednesday night to adopt year-round Daylight Saving Time could have benefits other than just saving electricity in the late afternoon and evening.

Supporters of the controversial "fast clock" first proposed 200 years ago by Benjamin Franklin say that an extra hour of evening light would cut down on crime, particularly during the Christmas shopping season, and could cut traffic fatalities, many of which happen during dark evening rush hours and involve drunk and fatigued drivers.

Britain tried year-round daylight time from 1968 to 1971, and officials said traffic deaths dropped 36 per cent.

The administration had opposed year-round Daylight Saving Time but a Transportation Department source said recently "the energy crisis has changed things." Thus, the President proposed reinstatement of the system Wednesday night.

The logic behind the idea is that more daylight would cut the use of electrical energy needed for lighting office buildings and homes.

The extra hour of daylight was used during both world wars, but was dropped as soon as the fighting ended.

Juvenile Injustice

The age of permissivness has produced hundreds of troubled children across the country. Their prognosis is not all inspiring. Seven present and just judges of the Family Court of New York City tell the failure of state, local and private agencies with these children in a scathing report titled, "Juvenile Injustice."

The report recites discrimination against the most seriously disturbed, deprived and disorganized children—primarily the black and Puerto Rican children. Services are not provided for those children most in need, children before the court do not have equal access to care and treatment and racism, consciously or unconsciously, pervades the child care system.

The judges recommend a law which would give the state Division for Youth primary responsibility to plan, develop, and contract for services from government and volunteer agencies instead of the present split jurisdiction. These services range from a much stronger probation staff, supportive services in the community, special programs in the schools, halfway houses to a wide variety of residential facilities.

Statistics of 431 children brought into Family Court on allegations of juvenile delinquency, in two months, cited shocking disparities in the disposition the court was able to make. Racism was at the bottom. Until that is cleared, the juvenile system is an introduction to crime.

5% FOR NOT SMOKING — A five per cent discount on homeowner policies for families of non-smokers is being offered by the Hanover Insurance Company of Wooster, Mass. Research by the National Safety Council and reports by various national Safety Council and reports by various national commissions for fire protection at last authoritatively connect smoking and house fires. Another incentive to quit.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE—There is a very active organization called "The Little People of America" and membership is limited to those under 58 inches in height. At their district convention in Des Moines, they joined in fighting discrimination against our shorter citizens and said they do not have adequate civil rights. It used to be, in Ireland long ago, the Little People had the upper hand.

YOUTH IN HIGHWAY SAFETY — To involve young people and women in the campaign for safety on the highways and in the home is the aim of the new president of the National Safety Council, Vincent L. Tofany, a former commissioner of the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles. Sounds like he's a good choice. Young peoples' accidents are crippling and maiming more of them each year and many help to make a shambles of our roads.

SOYBEAN ASCENDANT—Rising in world production at the fastest rate in history, soybean output in 1973 has already increased 22 per cent from 1972. Our own country expects a 24 per cent increase, to a record of almost 1.6 billion bushels. This flood of soybeans means less starvation and more meat, poultry, and eggs, as both cattle and birds thrive on it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Probers Eye Nixon–Wallace Deal

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The new special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, has inherited a number of unfinished investigations that could embarrass the man who appointed him.

The task force left behind by the ousted Archibald Cox has been prying into everything from President Nixon's personal finances to the $100,000 cash offering from billionaire Howard Hughes.

There have been other awkward inquiries not mentioned in the press. The special prosecutors were questioning witnesses, for examule, about a whispered deal between the President and Alabama's Gov. George Wallace.

It's known that Nixon was eager to keep Wallace from running as a third-party candidate in the 1972 presidential campaign. For Wallace was a spoiler who, as an independent, would hurt Nixon but, as a Democrat, would throw the Democratic race into turmoil.

PLANE DEAL?

In May 1971, the President invited Wallace to join him on a flight from Mobile to Birmingham. No known witnesses overheard what the two men said to one another during the plane ride.

But not long afterward, the Justice Department suddenly dropped a tax investigation of Wallace's brother, Gerald, and the governor announced he would run for President as a Democrat, not as an independent.

The special prosecutors cannot prove that Nixon killed the tax case in return for a pledge from Wallace to keep off a third-party ticket. But the prosecutors have established that the White House showed a curious interest in Gerald Wallace's tax troubles before the May 1971 plane ride.

Clark Mollenhoff, the tough investigative reporter who served briefly on the White House staff, has told the prosecutors that he was asked by then presidential staff chief H. R. Haldeman for a report on the Gerald Wallace tax investigation.

Mollenhoff obtained a summary of the investigation from the Internal Revenue Service, he said, and delivered it to Haldeman.

INCOME OMITTED

The audit division had found that Gerald Wallace allegedly had omitted legal-fee income from his tax returns in 1967 and 1968. After deducting large losses from his cattle farm, he reported a total taxable income of $109,944 in 1967 and $65,980 in 1968.

The case was referred on January 20, 1970, to Internal Revenue's crack intelligence division, which handles criminal investigations. A group of agents from various southern offices, assigned to the case, reported allegations that the Wallace brothers had used their law firm to receive political kickbacks and that Gerald had failed to report all the income that came to him through the law firm.

The White House had all this information before President Nixon met with George Wallace in the spring of 1971. Not long afterward, the case against Gerald was suppressed.

KISSINGER'S SPENDING: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger last month threw a wingding, which has State Department officials whistling at the extravagance.

When the invoices came in, according to internal documents in our possession, fiscal officer Richard Murray called international conferences director Murray Jackson to express his astonishment.

The bash was held at New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art, where the black-tied diplomats were seated around the Fountain of the Muses. The pool was adorned with garlands of greenery and large baskets of flowers. The flower bill alone cost the taxpayers an eyebrow-raising $7,983.

The guests dined elegantly on smoked trout, roast filet of veal, bouquet of vegetables, mixed green and avocado salad, Brie cheese and lemon mousse with three California wines. The taxpayers shelled out $24,385.50 just for the catering.

"Wines and Spirits" cost $3,422.11; printing costs ran $587.35. To record the bash for posterity, $222.60 was spent on photography.

A State Department spokesman told us the dinner was an annual tradition. Before the festivities, however, the striped-pants set was heralding the event as "totally without precedent."

COLSON'S COUP: It has been published that former White House aide Charles Colson tried to pull strings inside the Securities and Exchange Commission, which regulates the corporate world. We can now add another jigsaw piece to the puzzle.

Last January, aide Fred Malek was preparing recommendations for President Nixon for the SEC chairmanship. Colson shot off a memo to Malek, dated January 8, 1973, urging:

"When you are putting together a position paper for the President, would you please record me as favoring Brad Cook. Even though he is young, he is well experienced in politics, he knows the Commission and would be able to move immediately on some of the ery sensitive problems the Commission has. I think he would also be totally responsive here. . . ."

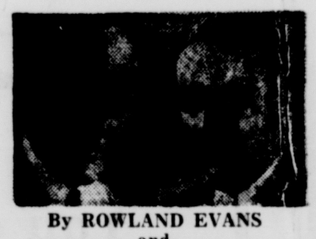

Cook got the job and Colson went into private practice. Not long afterward, Colson wanted Charles K. M. Mallory appointed to an SEC post. This was urged by Colson's law partner, Charles Morin, who pleaded in an internal memo: "In short, let's get this guy in that job or Cook may turn into a disaster for us."

Morin urged that Cook "ought to be reminded of how he got the job and how he almost did not get the job."

An indignant Mallory announced he wasn't "going to dance to anyone's tune." Cook resigned under fire on May 16th.

Inside Report

The Shah's Big Stick

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

TEHERAN — When Soviet Prime Minister Aleksei Kosygin on his recent visit here complained to the Shah about Iran's soaring armaments program, which he said was costing $2 billion, the Shah smiled a chilly smile and murmured: "Three, not two."

Indeed, the Shah's ambitious defense program is costing in toto even more than $3 billion. The Shah privately estimates its annual cost right now at between one and two billion dollars — a lot of hardware even for a fast-developing country of 32 million.

Yet, considering the Shah's ability to cash-and-carry every dollar's worth out of his oil-fattened treasury, and considering his plan to make Iran the principal guardian of the vital Persian Gulf waterway, his decision to build the best combat force between the Soviet Union and India is very good news for the West.

A cursory glance at the Shah's inventory, either in place or on order, makes pleasant reading for friends, among whom the U.S. stands high: close to a thousand British Chieftain tanks, 169 F-4s of the advance D and E classification, 141 F-5s, a couple of specially built British frigates, a couple of U.S. destroyers, U.S. air tankers to give his fighters maximum range, fast patrol boats, British-made Hovercraft and much more.

Neither the Shah nor his Prime Minister, a hard-headed nine-year veteran, will mention such statistics. They arouse suspicions in India and in some of the Shah's neighbors, particularly the hostile Iraqis.

Iraq broke relations with Iran in 1971 when the Shah seized British-controlled areas in the Gulf, including the Iranian side of the Shatt-al-Arab waterway dividing Iran and Iraq — and three strategic islets near the neck of the Persian Gulf — just before the British vacated the Gulf area. Although diplomatic relations were restored by Iraq for tactical reasons when the war of Yom Kippur broke out, the two countries are bitter enemies.

Thus, protecting his flank along the volatile border with Iraq, which is armed to the teeth by profligate Moscow, is a secondary reason for the Shah's huge military buildup. The greater reason is to keep Persian oil flowing and Persian control over the Gulf and the Sea of Oman.

As the Shah told us in an interview, "We must depend on ourselves. No one will do it for us."

The Shah means just that. He sent Iranian (Persian) armed help to Oman early this year to quell a radical left-wing movement in that small emirate. They are still there. He will do the same anywhere along the congested west bank of the Gulf.

Publicly, he and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, another traditional but more passive monarch, have agreed to cooperate on keeping the Gulf clear of foreign influences and to protect the small oil emirates from radical infiltration.

But the two monarchs are not close, despite efforts by Washington to make them so. Moreover, the Shah's prospective military power puts him in a unique class, far superior to the Saudis.

Soviet influence in the Gulf area today is weak, except for Iraq. A soviet mission in Kuwait is small, and the half-dozen emirates have not even granted diplomatic exchanges to Moscow.

That hasn't stopped systematic and increasing Soviet naval penetration of the Gulf, however. Small Soviet naval vessels are frequent visitors, and early this year for the first time a Soviet crusier steamed up the Shatt-al-Arab. Soviet activity is intense in Aden, far to the south on the Arabian tip, but on the Gulf itself there is no easy toehold other than Iraq — not yet.

So long as Moscow behaves, a future Pax Irana in the Gulf is conceivable. If Moscow tried to subvert the Shah's pledged role of Gulf protector and guarantor. U.S. counteraction is predictable, with detente a possible casualty.

"Detente is not divisible," Prime Minister Abbas Hoveyda told us. "Moscow cannot have it in Europe and the U.S. and ignore it here." If Moscow tries, the big stick the Shah is shaping will be used and used hard. He permits no doubt about that.

Night Court Is Third Rate Theater

Night Court. It's third-rate theater. . .

The actors shuffle onstage as their names are called. The bailiff stands under winking fluorescent rods bawling police charges in catarrhal tones. Behind the railing, in a dozen pews, law-abiding citizens chew gum and smirk. The magistrate, in black, looks like an overage vulture in a tree.

The wife-beaters are men with big hands and small vocabularies. The wives are dumpy in cloth coats and bruised eyes. The bailiff whines, "Howdyaplead?" The husband says, "Guilty." Absentimindedly, the judge says: "Thirty days." The wife screams.

She doesn't want her man to go to jail. She thought the judge could "give him a good talking to"; maybe he would quit drinking. The magistrate is not running a lecture bureau. Which is it going to be — jail or take him home and take your chances on another beating? She'll take him home.

The prisoner sobs. He is hardly offstage when the impeccable old man is led in. His hair is snowy. The chesterfield collar compliments the translucent skin. The young bearded detective wears his shield on his leather jacket. The old man is charged with making homosexual advances in the subway men's room. "Howdyaplead?"

The judge studies the charge sheet. This dignified human being has been arrested seven times. Same charge. "You need a lawyer," he says gently. "Put him in a detention cell until he can get counsel." A pair of tall leggy girls emerge. One is pale blonde; one is Afro.

They have yellow boots and glistening lipstick. The policeman is an obvious homebody. "They're a team, your honor," he says. "They work together along Eighth Avenue. Uh, blonde and black gives the Johns a cherce." The judge decides to hear testimony.

The policeman testifies he saw both girls talking to strange men. Did he hear them make a proposition? Set a price? No. He questions the black girl. Why approach strange men? She lowers long caterpillar lashes. "We tryin' to convert sinners to go to church, Judge." No prima facie evidence. Case dismissed. The long-legged missionaries give the judge an appraising smile.

The parade goes on for hours. Four gutter drunks. Foggy buddies. All middle-aged. In the alley where they were found, the wine had run out. The judge reverts to a familiar phrase: "Well, what do you have to say?" They are wise. They see him studying the long arrest sheets. "Nothing," one says. "Sixty days this time," the judge says.

They will be warm until after Christmas. Two young Puerto Rican girls stand between female cops. The charge is shoplifting a $79.90 coat. Their chins are on their chests. "Too young," the magistrate says. "I remand both prisoners to Youth Court."

The thirtyish man has brown wavy hair and strong features. The charge is non-support. He left a mouse for a tiger. The second wife wants every dime he earns. The judge looks down at the mouse, an attractive plaintiff. "This isn't a collection agency," he says. "But I'm going to hold this man for County Court. Next case." As the man disappears, the mouse studies his back with longing.

A bank executive tries to hide in his coat collar. He attended a cocktail party and, when the night air hit him, he began to embrace passing women on the sieewalk. The magistrate sees the waiting wife and the venom in her eyes. "I will parole this man in the custody of his wife," he says. Everyone waits for the "And may God have mercy on his soul," but the judge doesn't say it.

One by one, they emerge from a room at the right, pause at stage center, enact a moment of drama, and disappear. A room clerk steals $20 from a cheap flophouse. A prostitute tells how the male complainant undressed her, and of how she undressed his wallet. A father defends his son loudly.

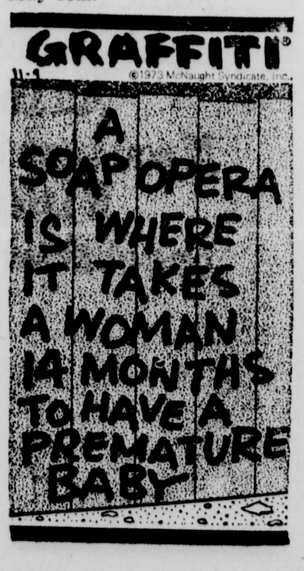

The son is sullen and silent. A policeman reads from a paper. "He has a history of second-degree rape, a dishonorable discharge from the Navy, found guilty of vagrancy at age 20, and has broken his mother's heart." "Now look here," the father shouts. "There is nothing wrong with my son. A little wild maybe, but. . ."

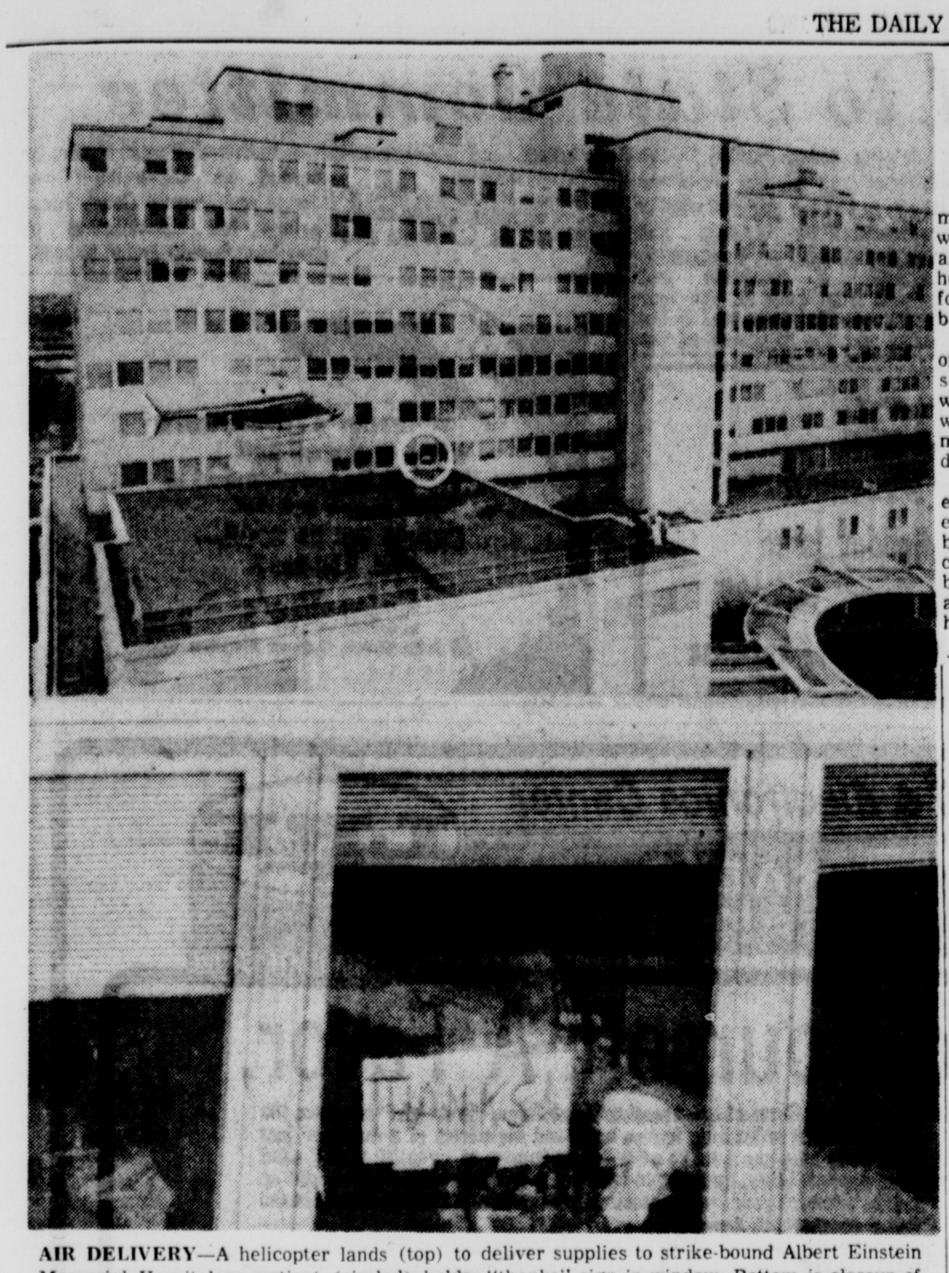

The audience smiles broadly when they see the elderly man come up on the arm of a cop. The charge: sitting on the front steps of Night Court and refusing to move when ordered. "How about it?" the judge says.

"It's cold out," the old man says. "I have no family any more. No job. I thought if you could put me away for the winter. . ." The audience breaks into laughter.

Night Court. It's third-rate theater. . .

The city declared a health emergency as a four-day-old strike by 30,000 non-medical workers at 49 private N.Y.-area hospitals began to create serious deficiences in essential hospital services. (UPI Telephoto)

Health Emergency Declared

NEW YORK (AP) — A non-medical employes union says it will keep pressing a strike against 48 hospitals and nursing homes despite a $500,000 fine for defying a federal judge's back-to-work order.

A spokesman for Local 1199 of the Drug and Hospital Union said Thursday night that the walkout, now in its fifth day, would continue at least until a membership vote set for Sunday.

The city's Board of Health earlier had declared a health emergency, saying the strike by some 30,000 workers had caused serious shortages of blood, medicine, food and fuel at the hospitals and nursing homes.

Imposing fines against the union and its officials for contempt of a previous no-strike order, U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Carter called the walkout "deliberate, irresponsible and inexcusable."

Carter put much blame for the strike, however, on the government's wage control apparatus. He directed the federal Cost of Living Council to meet Saturday to consider a long-deferred wage increase for the Local 1199 employes.

The judge told union leaders they were "holding the wrong people hostage" in their frustration over failure to receive approval of the 7.5 per cent pay hike which had been arbitrated by a state panel.

A Cost of Living Council official in Washington said the increase actually amounted to 11 per cent after fringe benefits are included. That would be double the government's 5.5 per cent wage guideline.

Besides the $500,000 fine against the union, Judge Carter set fines of $10,000 against Local 1199 President Leon J. Davis and $7,500 each against 14 other union officials.

He also said that if the strike continued, for each additional day there would be fines of $25,000 against the union, $2,500 against Davis and $1,000 against each of the other officials.

However, the judge added that all the fines would be suspended if all picketing and "obstruction" would cease immediately and if the walkout were completely ended by 8 a.m. today.

The proclaiming of a health emergency empowered Health Commissioner Joseph A. Cimino, with police backing, to take any steps he deemed necessary to relieve the plight of the struck institutions.

The last time a health emergency was declared was during a garbage strike in 1968.

Emergency measures reported under consideration included transfer of patients to non-struck city hospitals and use of city helicopters to ferry supplies to hospitals where union pickets have blocked truck deliveries.

The city health board said the strike curtailed supplies "vitally necessary for the proper care of patients," and created unsanitary conditions "dangerous to life."

Violent incidents continued to punctuate the strike Thursday. Hospital windows were broken, firebombs hurled, tires slashed in hospital parking lots, car windows broken and supply trucks forcibly turned away. One driver was punched by pickets. More than 30 arrests were reported.

Bank Bandit Killed, Fo. r Hostages Safe

ATLANTA (UPI) — A police sniper, firing from the roof of a bank, Thursday night shot a bandit crouched in the middle of four women hostages. The bandit fell into the clear and was riddled by bullets only a few feet from a getaway car containing $200,000 in cash.

The dead man, tentatively identified as George Lenton Whitfield, 32, of New Carrollton, Md., wounded policeman J. B. Adams before he died in the police and FBI fusillade. Adams, a rescue truck driver, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with a stomach wound.

None of the hostages, who fled screaming at the first shot, was hurt.

A milling, gawking crowd of several hundred persons watched the violent end to a three-hour drama that began just before closing at the Spring Street Branch of the First National Bank.

The gunman, a nattily dressed black, asked about loan information and then pulled a gun. One of the bank employes tripped a silent alarm but the gunman heard the alert on a police radio monitor he was carrying.

Police and FBI units swarmed to the bank, located one block off Atlanta's North Expressway, but the gunman threatened to kill the four women tellers if he was not given, a safe sendoff with $200,000. The branch bank had only $50,000 and had to send to the main office for the remainder.

The money was placed in a getaway car by branch Manager Elmer Schneid, who agreed to drive the vehicle. Schneid was sitting in the car, with the motor running, when the bandit emerged from the bank with two women in front of him and two behind him.

A police sniper atop the one-story bank saw an opening as the group walked toward the car and he shot the bandit in the chest. Three of the women ran screaming into the darkness, but the man grabbed the other one around the neck and fired over her shoulder, apparently striking Adams. The sniper fired again, hitting the man in the head, and the other hostage fled. The bandit, then in the clear, was riddled by an estimated 40 bullets from policemen and federal agents.

Two Are Arrested For Nine Murders

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — San Joaquin County sheriff's deputies adopted extra security measures today for the arraignment of two suspects in the massacre of nine persons in the dream home of a country grocer.

Willie L. Steelman, 28, an admitted heroin user, ex-mental patient and parolee, and Douglas E. Gretzler, 22, New York City, were to be escorted here under heavy guard from the county jail in nearby French Camp to be charged in Municipal Court.

They were captured Thursday in Sacramento, 30 miles north of this Central Valley farm community, and booked into the jail on nine counts of murder. Authorities said Steelman and Gretzler might also be linked to a double slaying and the disappearance of two others in Arizona.

Gretzler was arrested in a downtown hotel by Sacramento police armed with shotguns. A short time later officers hurled tear gas into an apartment, forcing Steelman from the room where he was holed up with a girlfriend.

Police said that weapons, which might have been used in the slayings in the small town of Victor near here Wednesday, also were found in the hotel.

The victims in the slaying were the grocer, Walter Parkin, 33, his wife, their two children and five friends. The bodies of the two Parkin children were found in a bed in the Parkin home. The rest of the bodies were found neatly stacked in a closet. All had been bound and shot in the head.

Parkin's neighbor, Bill Peterson, said his friend had dreamed of building a home, raising his family and planting grapes. Peterson said Parkin was "living" these goals.

Parkin's home was a sprawling $65,000 structure tucked into vineyards. Investigators theorized that the killers burglarized his store in Victor and then went to the home. An estimated $4,000 was taken from the grocery's safe.

Government Troops Clash With Communists in Viet

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops clashed with government forces today in the fifth day of infantry, armor and artillery battles for control of the southern Central Highlands. Saigon and Viet Cong spokesmen have called the fighting the start of a third Vietnam war.

The military command said government forces, who have lost three outposts since Sunday, fought early today to halt a Communist push toward the province capital of Gia Nghia, 110 miles north of Saigon.

The command said two government armored troop carriers (APCs) were heavily damaged in the fighting. A spokesman said there were no immediate casualty figures available on the pre-dawn clash.

The command said the fight was the third in 24 hours within a dozen miles of Gia Nghia, a key province capital on Highway 14 which runs from Saigon to the major Central Highlands city—Pleiku, 230 miles north of the capital.

The command reported five government soldiers and 12 Communists killed in Thursday's fighting. Four government men were reported wounded.

A command spokesman said the battles were near Bu Prang, Bu Dong and Dak Song, outposts seized by the Communists in the recent fighting.

Government military sources described the Communist push as an attempt to mask the building of a road along South Vietnam's western border and to divert Saigon troops from the northern Central Highlands.

The Viet Cong said today Communists were fighting in the highlands to regain sections of their "liberated zone" seized by government forces. Diplomatic sources, however, said the the fallen bases had been in government hands since the Jan. 28 cease-fire.

A Saigon spokesman said Thursday the latest outbreak of fighting marked the start of a third Vietnam war. Hours later, a Viet Cong spokesman in Paris said he agreed.

Judge Named to State Committee

POUGHKEEPSIE — Judge Joseph Jiudice, chairman of the board of trustees at Dutchess Community College, has accepted an appointment to serve as a member of the State University Advisory Committee on Community Colleges.

This year the committee will be preparing recommendations for the SUNY Trustees and Chancellor on legislative programs which will aid the development of the State University's network of 38 community colleges.

Judge Jiudice was also recently elected president of the Association of Boards and Councils of Two-Year Colleges (ABC), a statewide organization representing boards of trustees of all two-year community colleges in the state.

The DCC board chairman serves as the New York State representative to the Association of Community College Trustees, a national educational association.

Joining Judge Jiudice in the deliberations of the Advisory Committee on Community representatives from the Faculty Council on Community Colleges, a president and trustee from each of the four SUNY coordinating areas in the state, and the president of the Association of Community College presidents.

A charter member of the DCC board of trustees, Judge Jiudice has served as chairman since 1968.

A native of Poughkeepsie, he served as Children's Court Judge and Family Court Judge before his appointment as Dutchess County Judge in 1966.

DCC Professor Lauds Fitness

POUGHKEEPSIE — An increasing number of area residents are finding recreational facilities at Dutchess Community College to be among the finest in the area.

"The price for fitness is zero at Dutchess," remarks Richard S. Skimin, head of the department of health, physical education and recreation. "We encourage residents of all ages to take advantage of our extensive outdoor facilities for basketball, handball, jogging, soccer and tennis which their tax dollars have provided."

A survey recently completed by Professor Skimin on summer usage of the six newly-resurfaced tennis courts indicates a total of 2,160 local residents used the courts during the summer months.

Although the college's tennis courts facilities are now closed to the public for the season, summer attendance was unusually heavy with six courts in operation 12 hours per day.

The resumption of classes in September, however, restricts public use of the facilities to weekends. Saturdays and Sundays find many fitness enthusiasts of all ages using the athletic field and adjacent court facilities at the rear of Falcon Hall, the college's physical education center. There is no charge for use of any of these facilites, according to Professor Skimin.

The needs of the college's physical education and intramural programs do not preclude public use of indoor facilities during the winter months, however. Credit-free fitness programs are offered each semester at moderate cost as a service of the college's continuing education program.

Tentative spring semester offerings which may interest the fitness enthusiast are basic and advanced courses in tennis and karate, an advanced tennis doubles program, and fencing.

Chamber Effort Is Underway

KINGSTON

The Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County is in the midst of a membership sales effort. This effort is designed to offer the Chamber and its services to as many business and service organizations as possible. In addition, a larger, broader based membership will increase the Chamber's effectivenes and strengthen its programs.

President David H. Rylance has appointed Sidney Musiker as the overall chairman. Dr. William J. Cadden and Benjamin C. Magaldino are co-captians. A host of current Chamber members are acting as salesmen under the direction of team captains John F. Carnright, Virginia C. Ellis and Kenneth Hyatt. The sales effort is to conclude on Thursday, Nov. 15.

Dating back over 30 years the Chamber has had its share of accomplishments. More recently, in addition to its traditional efforts in behalf of the business community, the Chamber has directed a significant portion of its programming toward such issues as housing, education, and the fight against drug abuse. A major effort by the Chamber was the establishment of Project STEP. This manpower program, privately funded for the past five years, has trained and put into jobs large numbers of people from disadvantaged situations. Now in its sixth year STEP is negotiating a $75,000 State contract for further "On the Job" training programs . . . a benefit to both employers and employees.

The list of accomplishments is impressive. However, the potential is even more impressive. According to President Rylance a successful membership campaign is essential to turn potential to accomplishment. Business and industrial development, legislation, tourist and convention activity, manpower, consumer services, education and total community development will continue to receive the Chamber's full time attention said Rylance.

Buyers Club Fights High Prices; Monday Meeting Set

In order to combat the high cost of living, the Ulster County Buyers Club has been busy dispensing information and recruiting membership. Its purpose is to form groups throughout the area and pool food buying with the hope of purchasing as many items as possible for better prices than are now paid in retail stores

A Buyers Club meeting has been scheduled for Monday, Nov. 12 at the MOHR Neighborhood Service Center in Rosendale. Anyone interested in organizing one of these clubs should attend this meeting.

The Club seeks to deal with local poultry and produce farms for eggs, fruits and vegetables, buying, trucking and dividing bulk. It intends to align with other buying clubs and co-ops throughout the country for household items, clothing, drugs (vitamins and prescriptions) and incidentals in the future. By-passing overhead, service and profit, costs should be reduced. Goods will be delivered to some central point in the area where it will be divided and distributed.

Those already affiliated with the Club emphasized it will mean work on the part of the membership but well worth it.

The Club will give first attention to low-income families but there will be no restrictions about membership. Everyone is welcome to join.

In addition to the Club's own form of "non-profit retail chain," plans include consumer education, exchange of recipes and an outlet for handcrafts.

Anyone interested in joining the Ulster County Buyers Club may obtain an application from any of the following centers:

Kingston — Rondout Neighborhood Center, 11 Broadway, Kingston;

Saugerties — Saugerties Neighborhood Center, 124 Parititon Street, Saugerties;

Highland — Mid-Hudson Community Action Committee, 24 Vineyard, Highland;

Wallkill — Southern Ulster Family Service Center, Reformed Church, Bridge Street, Wallkill;

Ellenville — Warwarsing Neighborhood Center, 104 Canal Street, Ellenville;

Rosendale — Rosendale Marbletown Neighborhood Center, 19 Main Street, Rosendale.

La Leche Organizes New Series

STEERING ACTIVITIES for the La Leche League will be seated (l-r) Cheri Andrews, leader-in-training; Ruth Scogna, Linda Donaldson, leaders; standing (l-r) Pan Usticke, and Ann Terrenoire, leaders. Because of the increased membership in La Leche, a second group has been organized and will be led by Mrs. Ruth Scogna. The League meets in the homes of members to maintain an informal atmosphere and promote a "mother-to-mother" approach in discussions. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Kingston La Leche League will begin a new series of meetings on Tuesday, Nov 13, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ruth Scogna, 147 Green Street, Kingston. This new series represents the formation of a second group in Ulster County made necessary by the continued response of area women to the league and its activities.

Kingston East will be under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Scogna. Mrs. Pan Usticke of West Hurley will continue to guide the Kingston West Group.

Mrs. Scogna will moderate a discussion on "The Advantages of Breastfeeding," covering the physiological, psychological and practical advantages of nursing. Dates for the remaing meetings in the series are: December 11, "The Art of Breastfeeding, and Overcoming Difficulties; January 8, "Baby Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby"; and February 12, "Nutrition and Weaning."

The best time to attend meetings is during pregnancy, but any woman interested in breastfeeding is welcome to attend. The League meets in the homes of members to maintain an informal atmosphere and promote a "mother-to-mother" approach in discussions.

Telephone counseling on the non-medical aspects is available from League leaders. LLL maintains an extensive library of books on Childbirth, childcare, breastfeeding and nutrition, available for loan at the meetings, as are pamphlets on the more specialized aspects of nursing.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Distributed by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette had been sent to Mrs. Alexander Dobieski, of Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Dear Mrs. Post: We have mailed formal invitations to our relatives and friends to attend an anniversary (35th) dinner dance which will also be a "thank you" party for many who have done so much for us through the years.

Along with the invitation we enclosed a special card expressing our appreciation and gratitude, and we requested "No Gifts or Envelopes Please." We heard that some people will respect our wishes while others are planning a gift or envelope. We don't know how to handle this situation. Should we accept the gift in order not to embarrass our guest and return it later, or should we refuse it as it is presented to us? I feel the latter idea would be most ungracious, but what about the next guest who may have respected our wish? Many of the people seem to be offended or embarrassed by the "No Gift" card. — Mrs. Dobieski

Dear Mrs. Dobieski: The most gracious solution to your problem is to accept the gifts that are presented to you, and keep them. Even though the donors ignored your request, it would be most unappreciative to give back — or refuse to accept — a gift to which they had given thought and effort.

I believe that far more of your friends will respect your wishes than will not. Those who don't bring a gift have no reason to be embarrassed by the others, because actually, they are "in the right."

Because of your request and the probability that there will be some donors and some non-donors, don't open the gifts when they are presented. This would embarrass those who brought nothing and give too much importance to those who did. After thanking your friends, put the gifts aside in an inconspicuous place, and open them later, adding a thank-you note to your verbal thanks.

Today's Females Working Harder Study Reveals

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — We working wives knew it all along. Now comes a detailed study of the work load carried by today's female of the species, showing that it is much heavier despite all the hoopla about labor-saving devices.

In short, we're working harder than our mothers and grandmothers and great-grandmothers. Our family lifestyle has become what one sociologist calls "the harried leisure class." The technology of the seventies has not really given us more leisure time.

Present day hours spent in household work compared with half a century ago are examined in the current "Journal of Home Economics", official publication of the American Home Economics Association (AHEA).

It's written by Dr. Kathryn E. Walker, who is leading a continuing study of the subject at Cornell University. She says that when home economists first began to study the length of a woman's work week 50 years ago, they found it to be 42 to 49 hours.

Today, the employed woman works a 66- to 75-hour week at combined job and household duties.

"It is probably true," she says, "that as we are released from one household job by new products and new services, we choose to give that released time to the things we were not able to get done yesterday or that we had not done as well as we wished."

For instance. Because it is so much easier to wash clothes in an automatic washer than on a washboard, we now wash clothing and linens more frequently than we used to and total time spent on laundry has not decreased perceptibly. The same analogy could be worked out for many other kinds of housework.

Miss Walker, in examining the "why," says the tendency to do more work each week seems to be related to the fact that families have many more goals than they used to — some achievable by doing more household work and some achievable with the extra money earned in outside employment.

In today's affluent world, we encompass more of what we want to do — more acquisitions to care for, more rooms to clean, a bigger yard to mow and plant and prune, more clothes to care for, more foods to choose from, and more exotic recipes to prepare.

It is here that she quotes Staffan Burenstam Linder's reference to us all as "the harried leisure class."

Dr. Walker says her findings are based on talks with some 1,400 families selected at random from a large population stratified by rural, urban or suburban location, number of children, age of the youngest and oldest child, and in families without children the age of the wife.

The research showed the average amount of time spent on housework by employed women ranged from 4 to 8 hours daily. The average for the nonemployed homemaker ranged from 5 to 12 daily.

She asks whether this means that employed women are more efficient because they have time pressures. "We have no answers," she says. "We can only speculate."

MEMBERS of the United Methodist Women of the Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church are full of holiday spirit as they prepare for their annual bazaar and roast beef dinner. The gala event is Wednesday, Nov. 14 at the church with free coffee served from 12-3 p.m. Christmas decorations for the home and tree, handmade items, food and candy booths, Grandma attic and games and toys will be featured. Arranging the displays are (l-r) Mrs. Norman Schwakopf and Mrs. Robert Williams, co-chairmen of the event. Public is invited to attend. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Annual Harvest Festival

The United Methodist Women of the Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church will sponsor their annual HARVEST FESTIVAL, on Wednesday, Nov. 14 in the assembly room of the church. The public is invited to visit the fair which will open at noon. Free coffee will be served until 3 p.m.

Willing Workers will have the food booth with an assortment of taste treats. The Gem Society will have the candy corner.

Mrs. Alfred Motter, Mrs. Hilary Schultz and Mrs. Norman Schwakopf are in charge of the fancy work booth with many handmade items, aprons, toys and novelties. The Christmas booth with Mrs. Howard Bertholf, Mrs. Olin Kittle and Mrs. Ferris Williams, will display decorations for the tree and home, also toys and games for the children. Grandma's attic will feature bric-brac, glassware and china. Decorations will be done by the Methodist Youth, with Brian Edwards as chairman.

A family style roast beef dinner will be served at 5:30 and 6:30 under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Giles. Mrs. Oscar Newkirk is in charge of the dining room and Mrs. Thomas Miller is ticket chairman.

At this time, only 6:30 dinner tickets are available.

Focus will provide a nursery for children, four and under from 5:15 till 8 p.m. with Mrs. Sondra Woodvine, chairman.

Widow's Computer Dates Leave Her Lonely

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: If you use my letter, please don't use my name. I already feel like a first class fool. I am a 58-year-old widow who signed up with a computer dating service four months ago.

I was interviewed in person and said I liked classical music and theater, and only wanted a presentable escort. I paid them $398, and they guaranteed me two dates a month with a man supposedly selected by computer whose interests would match mine.

None of the characters they came up with were even presentable. All impressed me as men who were looking for a meal ticket. Some were insulting.

After four months without one suitable date, I asked this company for a $200 refund. They turned me down. I saw my lawyer, who said I was an idiot for having gone for a deal like this in the first place.

I could sue them, but I don't want to publicize my foolishness. I ask you, are all these mating and dating services just out to take people? And where does a respectable woman go to meet a decent man?

BEEN HAD

DEAR BEEN: I've had both bad and good reports on computer dating and mating services. (Mostly bad, which is not surprising since people write to me about their bad breaks — not their good.) I agree with your lawyer. Respectable women meet decent men thru mutual friends, or in decent places like volunteer organizations, church groups, and adult education classes.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and am still a virgin. This guy I'll call Randy asked me to go all the way with him. I told him I was saving myself for marriage, and he said I was foolish because no guy wants a virgin anymore. Is that true?

Randy signed up for the Navy for four years and he is leaving soon. Do you think a girl should get that serious with a guy before he goes into the Navy? He probably just wants somebody to write to, but I am afraid to get involved with him knowing he'll be tied up with the Navy for so long.

Please tell me what to do as I am all mixed up.

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN DOUBT: Slow up, young lady, or you will be in TROUBLE. Plenty of guys want their brides to be virgins so don't let Randy sell you a bill of goods. He sounds like an immature, irresponsible kid you would do well to stay away from.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old woman whose mother tells her she is "blockheaded and stubborn" because she refuses to try to make friends with a large dog that attacked her two years ago.

Being attacked by this dog was a traumatic experience for me. I can still remember the bleeding teeth marks on my wrist, and the large scar on my leg which took a year to heal.

My mother claims that this dog is friendly to anyone who isn't afraid of him, so I should pet him thru the fence to make friends with him, and act like I am not afraid of him. I claim that under the circumstances it is normal for me to be afraid, and even foolish to be otherwise.

This dog was trained as a watchdog. Am I being stubborn?

J. W.

DEAR J. W.: Yes. But intelligently so. They say, every dog is entitled to one bite. And that dog has had his.

Tiny Tips

A swivel-blade vegetable peeler is a "must" in a well-out-fitted kitchen. It's sharp and speedy, removing paper-thin parings from vegetables and fruit so there is no waste.

• • •

Magnetic potholders that cling to the side of a range are a good step-saver.

• • •

Wash cast iron cooking utensils with soap suds instead of with a synthetic detergent. Soap protects the surface and helps to keep it from rusting better than detergent does.

• • •

Don't cook eggs in the shell in an aluminum pan because the metal will darken badly. Use a stainless steel, enamel or glass pan when you are preparing soft or hard-cooked eggs.

• • •

Rinse a garlic clove in hot water before you peel it. The hot water usually loosens the tight skin so it can be easily removed.

• • •

If that meat stew doesn't have enough flavor, try adding a little tomato paste and dry sherry.

IT'S A SHOO-IN FOR A LASTING SHINE

Dear Heloise:

As the mother of our boys, three grown and one teenager, we have had bottles and bottles of high-gloss model enamel all over the house for years.

Well, I discovered how useful this model enamel can be for touching up different things — but the best one is shoes.

I have a cute pair of black patent leather shoes, with a small amount of white leather trim on them, which, needless to say, I soon tired of.

And no amount of black shoe dye or black patent leather polish would cover it.

So being a "do-it-yourselfer" — I washed off all the old dye and let them dry a few days and out came the small bottle of black model hi-gloss enamel and a small brush.

Now, believe it or not, you can't tell the patent leather part of the shoe from the part I painted.

The enamel comes in all colors and is very reasonably priced. Some kits have five colors and a bottle of thinner to be used in cleaning that little brush.

I even mixed two colors to get just the right shade to touch up some nicks on a pair of orange pumps.

Dear Heloise:

I've found that petroleum jelly makes a beautiful and inexpensive lip gloss.

Not only that, but you can mix in a few drops of regular food coloring and it is just as exciting as the new lip glosses.

Also on the back of the box of food coloring is a chart that shows how to mix colors, and this helped me get the exact shade that I wanted.

Mine has lasted and lasted. Besides that, it is very inexpensive and helps heal chapped lips at the same time.

Evelyn

I have a teenage friend named Lisa and she agreed to give your idea a try.

She tried it and passed it along to some of her friends. They were delighted. Not only with the results, but the boost it gave their financial situation.

Evelyn, they consider you a friend for life and said to tell you "thanks" for sparing their budgets.

Rejected Bond Issue... Alternate Funding Sources Sought

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—State officials are trying to figure out a way to pick up the pieces in the wake of the crushing defeat of a proposed $3.5 billion transportation bond issue.

The bond issue was supposed to save the New York City subway fare and provide state money for transportation capital projects for the next decade.

With its rejection, state and local officials have to try to come up with alternate sources of funding in those two areas.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the architect of the bond plan, met in his New York City office Wednesday with a number of aides to discuss transportation problems.

He was described as "philosophical" about the defeat, but determined to find a new way to avoid what he had said would be the "catastrophic" consequences of a projected increase in the New York City subway fare from 35 cents to 60 cents.

Some Democrats called for the state to subsidize fares by using what they claim is a projected state budget surplus of up to $700 million. But Rockefeller says the surplus will be only $52 million, and several Republicans were suggesting that the only way to save the fare might be with new taxes in New York City.

Several alternatives were being floated about as ways to provide continued smooth funding of transportation capital projects.

Under one proposal reportedly under discussion, the Metropolitan Transportation Authority could issue bonds for improvements in the New York City area transit systems, and then the state would pay the costs of the MTA's bonds. This would have the same financial effect as the defeated bond issue, but without the necessity of voter approval.

Another idea, given "a very remote chance" even by the few officials suggesting it, would be for the state to present voters with a new bond issue next year, this one scaled down in size and providing only for mass transit.

Under either of these two schemes, highway improvements and transit programs upstate could be financed at a reduced pace from general state revenues.

The legislature's Republican leaders indicated that they would turn a critical eye to any transportation plan offered up in the wake of the defeat of the bond issue.

Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson expressed disappointment at the defeat, but said pointedly that "transportation, although it is one of the most vital challenges facing our society today, cannot take precedence over aid for education and our efforts to provide the same amount of tax relief which was voted by the legislature at the 1973 session."

Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea said the defeat presented the legislature "with a significant and complex issue in the early days of the 1974 session." He pledged that "we will expend every effort in discussions with all parties involved . . . in an attempt to resolve these transit and transportation problems."

Transportation Commissioner Raymond Schuler, who carried the major burden of campaigning for the bond issue, said "I am disappointed." But he vowed to press ahead with his programs, and said "I don't view this as a rejection of public transportation."

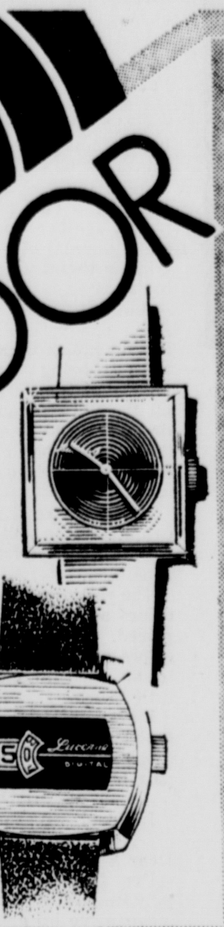

Fund Drive Is Planned

KINGSTON — The first fund-raising drive for the Planned Parenthood League in Ulster County has officially begun, according to Fund Drive Committee co-chairwomen Bonnie Stevens and Judith Wilkie, both of Stone Ridge.

The co-chairwomen expressed hope that the initial campaign will successfully supplement the New York State Department of Maternal and Child Health Care grant, which provides the organization's primary support.

Persons interested in supporting the fund drive are urged to contact the Planned Parenthood League clinics in Kingston or New Paltz.

Wawarsing Adopts Budget

By WADE BURKHART

WAWARSING

The Wawarsing Town Board adopted, following a quiet and sparsely attended public hearing Thursday night, a budget for 1974 which shows total appropriations to be up slightly over 1973, but the amount to be raised by taxes slightly down.

The final 1974 figures set the total appropriations at $1,097,845.15, with the amount to be raised by taxes $805,478.65. The 1973 figures show appropriations at $1,011,081.87, and the amount to be raised by taxes $819,721. These figures includes special districts within the town.

Following the adoption of the budget, Treasurer Joseph Galandiuk told the Freeman that town taxes, exculusive of what the county will charge Wawarsing residents, will probably be down about $1 per thousand of assessed valuation for 1974.

The budget includes an eight per cent raise for the town's full-time officers and professional staff, but again no raise for the councilmen. Their salary stands at $3,000 a year. Supervisor Frank Harkin said he had been urging the councilmen to take a raise for the past two years, but they had refused to do so.

The main salaries for the town in 1974 stand at $12,100 for the supervisor, $10,770 for the town clerk, $12,960 for the superintendent of highways, and $11,000 for the building inspector. The building inspector's raise is a bit more than eight per cent, but Harkin explained that he had a zoning ordinance to enforce now, in addition to his other duties.

The biggest new revenue item in the budget is federal revenue sharing, which is listed at $74,700 for 1974, and may be slightly higher according to Harkin. Of this amount, $51,700 is earmarked for transportation, $3,000 will go to the library, and $20,000 will be used to help pay for the new town landfill site, a 55-acre tract in the hamlet of Wawarsing that has a $75,000 price tag.

One big jump in appropriations is in Item 1 of the Highway Fund. This will be up more than $20,000, with the increase mainly due to salary increase for the highway crew and increased contractual expense.

In some cases, the town board voted to spend more to get more. In the case of programs for the aging, Harkin said that by raising that item $500 it qualified for a federal aid program.

Revenues are expected to fall off in the area of mortgage taxes. Harkin said the currently depressed nature of the building industry would probably cause this revenue area to fall off slightly.

The town again budgeted $8,000 as its share for the emergency employment program, the town's Task Force. Harkin pointed out that this group saved the town $1,500 a year in cemetery maintenance alone, as well as working in a number of other areas. "I think it's a good buy," he said.

New Parking Meters Loom for City

KINGSTON

City officials appear ready to junk penny parking meters in favor of modern "slug-proof" meters that will accept only nickles and dimes. The Freeman learned today.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig suggests that more meetings between his office and the Traffic Committee of the Common Council might be necessary before a definite commitment from his office — money — is forthcoming. But Koenig indicates nonetheless that he is at least receptive to including funds in his 1974 budget for the purchase of new meters.

Koenig has been discussing the matter with Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), chairman of the Common Council's Traffic Committee who formally proposed at the June meeting of the Council that the city replace all its meters, eventually.

The question now appears to be only how much the city is going to put into the replacement program, initially. Estimates on replacing the entire 350-odd meters in the city range to about $33,000. Indications now are that the city will go for about 200 the first year and replace the rest in 1975.

At first when Mancuso raised the issue this past summer, it was thought that the city would retain its penny parking setup — actually, it is pennies and nickels — but it now appears that technology and inflation have passed the city by. "The manufacturer's tell us that they only make meters for nickles and dimes," Mancuso said. "There's no question that we will go to nickels and dimes."

And, there is no question in Mancuso's mind that the public, and perhaps more importantly, the merchants, will accept the demise of penny parking. He cites the success of the uptown parking garage and the county parking lot behind the court house as examples that the public is willing to pay for parking. "And besides," asks Mancuso, "what other city has penny parking?"

City officials expect not only to take in more revenue with the nickel-dime parking but also, and perhaps more importantly, they expect that it will better serve the prime purpose of metering, turnover of parkers. The new meters alone would serve that purpose, as Mancuso estimates that well over half the city's meters are broken or inoperative at any given time and that owing to their age — most are over 25 years old — repair parts are getting more rare every year.

It would appear that the only question remaining is how the city is going to pay for the new meters. Mancuso had suggested that all the revenues from the meters could be set aside to pay for them but has been informed that there are legal problems with that approach.

"We're looking for help from the mayor," Mancuso said. Indications are that it's coming.

Claims to Highlight Council Session

KINGSTON

Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein is epected to have a busy night at Monday night's meeting of the Common Council what with almost $400,000 in claims againt the city heading the Council agenda.

The aldermen usually meet the first Tuesday of the month but that's election day in November, so the aldermen meet the following Monday this year on Nov. 12.

The claims against the city are as a result of two separate traffic accidents in July allegedly involving city-owned vehicles.

The first accident allegedly occurred on the evening of July 20 when a car driven by David Mpongo of 44 Abeel Street was in collision with a city firetruck at the corner of Broadway and O'Neil Street around 8 p.m.

Mpongo is claiming damages of $55,000 for himself and an equal amount for his wife, Julia and $10,000 for alleged injuries suffered by their son, Kitoko.

There were two passengers in the Mpongo vehicle at the time of the accident. Jo Ann Robinson 102 Downs Street is claiming $100,000 in injuries while her husband, Ronald, is claiming $5,000.

The second accident occurred on the afternoon of July 31 near the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. It is alleged by Robert Dickerson of 16 Sherry Lane that a city Department of Works truck was parked on the wrong side of the road and was struck by a car driven by his son, William. He is asking $100,000 for personal injuries suffered by his son and medical expenses.

Vincent R. Guido of 180 Sherry Lane is seeking $45,000 for injuries suffered by his son, Mark, a passenger in the car and $15,000 for himself to cover medical expenses. In addition the Guido's are asking $300 to pay for damages to the Guido car.

All those claims will be referred to Klein for appropriate action.

Also on tap Monday night is a petition from Mt. View Coach Lines to use Plaza Road and converse Street as part of its city route. Mt. View was forced to leave the bus terminal on Broadway by Trailways, recently, and has established its new terminal at the A & W Rootbeer stand on Converse Street.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig's communication to the Council notifying them of the appointment of 15 persons to the Bicentennial Commission will be read and filed although there may be some discussion on the number of out of town residents on the commission.

A communication from Alderman Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward) will also be read calling for the establishment of a new standing committee of the Common Council which Smith wants called the "Operations Committee" to oversee the day to day - oversee the day to day operation of the city.

The aldermen meet at 7:30 p.m., city hall, 1 Meadow Street.

Planning Zoning Law Seminar at UCCC

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College is offering another section of a Planning and Zoning Law Seminar on four Tuesday nights, starting Nov. 27, at the Stone Ridge campus.

The new section was added because a previous seminar, beginning Oct. 30, had reached its maximum capacity. Registrations will be accepted until Nov. 20, or when the second class has reached capacity.

The credit-free seminar is being taught by Herbert Hekler, director of Planning for Ulster County, who has had considerable experience in this area.

The seminar is designed to discuss the major legal issues of planning and zoning. State legislation, court decisions and local problems will be analyzed. The seminar is for elected and appointed local officials, attorneys and others actively concerned with planning and zoning laws.

Further information about the seminar may be obtained by calling the Office for Continuing Education at the College.

Nelson Provides Boost As Celts Win Over Knicks

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's important to start off good, especially in the other guy's building," said Boston forward Don Nelson. "We needed to get the momentum going."

Nelson scored the first six points of the game to give the Celtics all the momentum they needed Thursday night and they led all the way for a 94-84 victory over the New York Knicks. It was Boston's eighth triumph in 11 outings this season and boosted them two games ahead of New York in the National Basketoall Association Atlantic Division.

Nelson, who wound up with just nine points for the night, said that going six points ahead early in front of a hostile Madison Square Garden crowd gave the Celtics a lift and, he added, "It's certainly better than falling behind by six."

Boston pulled away to a 20-point lead late in the second quarter and was seriously threatened just once. The Knicks ran off six straight points at the start of the second half to cut the Boston lead to five points. But a pair of foul shots by Dave Cowens and a layup by Paul Silas cut the Knick rally short.

Boston has beaten New York twice in as many tries this season but the Celtics say it's still too early to start bragging.

Sports

"This game doesn't really mean anything," admitted Celtic Captain John Havlicek, the game's high scorer with 20 points. "Nothing matters until the end of the season. Right now you work hard because you're paid to work hard and if you don't, you can develop bad habits. But this was not a particularly important game."

"We know that we match up good with the Knicks and that any time we play each other it'll be a good game," added Nelson. "That's certainly not going to change because we won two games. It wouldn't change even if we won six straight."

Jo Jo White added 19 points for the winners and Silas had 14. Boston dominated the boards with 60 rebounds to 46 for New York. The Knicks played without center Willis Reed, who injured a knee last week in Los Angeles.

There were just two other NBA games played last night. The Detroit Pistons downed the Atlanta Hawks 129-115 and the Chicago Bulls shaded the Golden State Warriors 112-111.

The Utah Stars coasted past the sagging New York Nets 124-109 in the only American Basketball Association contest.

Pistons 129, Hawks 115

Don Adams pumped in 10 straight points in just over two minutes late in the third period to put it away for Detroit. Adams, a former Hawk and a native of Atlanta, wound up with 23 points and teammate Bob Lanier had 21. The Pistons have won seven of their last nine gmes and Hawks' Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons was impressed.

"They whipped us from the opening buzzer to the final buzzer in every phase of the game," said Fitzsimmons. "Detroit played one whale of a game."

Bulls 112, Warriors 111

Norm Van Lier sank two free throws with six seconds remaining enabling Chicago to extend its winning streak to 10 games. Bob Love finished with 31 points and Van Lier and Chet Walker had 25 each for the winners.

Stars 124, Nets 109

Seven players scored in double figures for Utah as the Stars handed New York its eighth consecutive defeat. Ron Boone was the high man with 21 points, 15 of them in the first quarter.

Nets' star Julius Erving spent much of the game on the bench with a sore knee but is expected to play Saturday night in San Diego.

Gibby's Decision Pays Off

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI)—Gibby Gilbert, tired of being an also-ran, was ready to quit golf three months ago. Winless Allen Miller, only half-jokingly, says "I sorta wish he had."

The 32-year-old Gilbert Thursday fired a phenomenal eight birdies plus an eagle to offset a single bogey and came up with the best round ever recorded at the famous Pinehurst Country Club—nine-under-par 62 on the 7,007-yard No. 2 course.

That gave him a five-stroke lead entering the second round of the marathon $500,000 World Open Golf Championship, the richest event in PGA history. Runnerup Miller was alone with a 67 on the No. 4 course, where veteran Miller Barber fired a 68 to stand alone in third place.

Only a dozen golfers managed to break par in the first round of the 144-hole event. South African Gary Player, a top favorite for the $100,000 first prize who settled for a 73 Thursday, predicted that even par for the eight rounds would "easily" win the tournament.

But anyone watching Gilbert Thursday wouldn't have thought so.

Starting on the back side, he birdied No. 12 when his five-iron shot left him a five-foot putt. Three holes later, on the 15th, he struck for another birdie with a 20-inch putt. Then, on the No. 2 hole, he started a string of five birdies, sinking putts of 20, 25, 5, 20 and 30 feet, and then adding a two-foot birdie putt on No. 9. His eagle came on the par-five, 504-yard 16th hole when he chipped in from 35 feet. His bogey came on the seventh hole when he missed a four-foot putt.

His 62 shattered a course record of 65 for the No. 2 course that was held jointly by Ben Hogan, Johnny Palmer and amateur Charlie Palmer.

Gilbert has notched only one victory, in the 1970 Houston Open, since joining the tour five years ago. He hasn't managed better than fifth at Westchester this year and after a dismal showing in the American Golf Classic, he said, "I figured it was all over.

"I already had another job lined up as a sales representative," he said. "I'd been playing real bad for three months."

But Jack Nicklaus, one of the noted absentees from the World Open, gave him some advice—see Jack Grout, Nicklaus' old tutor.

"Grout helped straighten out my hook and in seven of the next eight tournaments I finished in the top 25," he said. "Now I have to play some more."

Miller, 25, thought Gilbert's round was "incredible." And he was proud of his own, especially because of the course he was playing on.

"I was scared of playing No. 4, everybody is," Miller said, but declined to talk in detail of his feelings for the 6,905-yard layout, saying, "I might say some things I shouldn't."

But the 240-player field swaps courses for today and Miller was looking forward to seeing No. 2. "I'll be playing the greatest course in the world," he said.

Mets, A's Split Pot

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was a unique feature to the seventh game of the World Series that was just announced Thursday. The Oakland A's were playing for over $24,000 a man but the New York Mets were playing for just under $20,000.

It was announced Thursday by the baseball commissioner's office that the Oakland A's received $24,760.87 for winning the World Series while the New York Mets got $14,950.17 for losing.

But if the Mets had won, they wouldn't have received the $24,000. They would have gotten about $20,000. That's because the Mets gave out 34 full shares and the Oakland players gave out only 27.

Included among the Mets' 34 shares was one to the grounds crew. The Mets also gave half shares to Jim Fregosi and Phil Hennigan, who were traded in July when the club was in last place.

Oakland's Mike Andrews, the player involved in the most controversial incident in the series when owner Charley Finley tried to fire him, received a one-fourth share for $6,190.22. Oakland gave a half-share to Jesus Alou, who played in only 36 games and a third share to Vic Davalillo, who played in 37.

A total of 12 clubs split a record purse of $1,991,461.17, topping the previous record of $1,832,178.15—also set last year. The attendance at the playoffs and World Series also set a record of 643,641.

The total receipts for the playoffs and Series were $5,337,281.25 but the players divide only the revenue from the first three playoff games and the first four World Series games.

The losers in the playoffs, the Baltimore Orioles and the Cincinnati Reds, received $7,469.78 and $6,874.51 per man.

The Boston Red Sox got $1,314.47 per man, the Kansas City Royals $1,391.80, the St. Louis Cardinals $1,332.98, the Los Angeles Dodgers $1,327.23, the Detroit Tigers $337.07, the Minnesota Twins $366.26, the Pittsburgh Pirates $295.66 and the San Francisco Giants $365.36.

I'VE GOT IT—Bruins' goalie Gilles Gilbert (R) makes stop on Canadiens' Guy LaFleur (10) as Bobby Orr (L) loks on in first period action Thursday night. Bruins won, 2-1. (UPI)

Bruins Showed Ruel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Claude Ruel, super scout for the Montreal Canadiens, got himself into a super mess with the Boston Bruins.

Ruel scouted the Bruins and made some disparaging remarks about Boston's depth, all of which came back to haunt him Thursday night when Boston beat Montreal 2-1.

"The super scout from Montreal said we had only one line, eh?," said Boston Coach Bep Guidolin. "I reminded our guys of this between every period and Dave Forbes got the winner.

"He's our 10th man, you know. Maybe I should remind him (Ruel) of that."

In the only other National Hockey League action, Los Angeles edged Philadelphia 3-2.

In the night's only World Hockey Association game, Edmonton tripped Quebec 4-3.

Forbes, a rookie out of American International College, tapped in Bobby Orr's rebound late in the third period to snap a 1-1 tie.

Montreal, the defending Stanley Cup champions, had not lost since Wayne Thomas replaced Bunny LaRocque in goal Oct. 20. Since then, the Canadiens had six victories and two ties.

But this streak came before Boston had its chance to make Ruel's scouting report obsolete.

Kings 3, Flyers 2

Juha Widing converted a pass from Bob Berry into the winning goal at 17:30 of the third period and propelled Los Angeles to a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia.

Widing, streaking in from the right side, slid a short shot into the vacant net after Berry's move had drawn goalie Bernie Parent onto the other side of the cage.

Oilers 4, Nordiques 3

Ron Climie's 12th goal of the season at 1:24 of the third period helped Edmonton to a 4-3 victory over Quebec.

Climie ,who scored five goals in Edmonton's 8-0 triumph over New York Tuesday night, poked the puck past Quebec goalie Serge Aubry from a scramble in front of the Nordiques' goal.

Energy Crisis Could Hurt Auto Racing Program

NEW YORK (AP) — The energy crisis, particuarly any serious shortage of gasoline, could have a damaging effect on the 1974 auto racing program, according to officials close to the sport

"We don't use that much gasoline in our stock car program," said Bill France Jr., president of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing. "But if the national shortage became really serious, enough to require rationing, it certainly would hurt attendance."

Officials of other sanctioning bodies that run some 150 major events at tracks across the country expressed similar concern Thursday night.

"We'd be in the same position as other promoters," said an official of the Charlotte Motor Speedway, one of the showcase tracks on the NASCAR circuit. "People use gasoline to get to our races. Without it, they would have to stay home."

A spokesman for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, which counts race day attendance for its May 500-mile race at more than 300,000, said:

"Our race cars do not use gasoline, so the shortage wouldn't hurt us from that standpoint. But people drive in from all over the country during the month of May. Any rationing program would probably hurt attendance, particuarly during the final weekend when we have our biggest crowd."

France and the other spokesmen for racing, which draws upwards of 45 million spectators yearly, also noted that other sports programs would be affected at the gate — though not as severely as auto racing.

"People can ride buses to stadiums in big cities, where municipally-owned facilites are usually on bus lines," a small track promoter near Greensville, S.C., said. "Most race tracks are privately owned and usually are out in the boondocks. They had to get far enough outside the city to be able to afford the land."

France's Grand National stock cars, limited to the last three model years and powered by big-bore, fuel-gulping engines, use pump gasoline of a slightly higher octane than the premiums offered at most gas stations.

The Indianapolis-type cars use a fuel mixture based on methanol, while such series as the Sports Car Club of America's Formula 5000, Can-Am and Trans-Am use pump gasoline.

All of NASCAR's racers are fueled by the Union Oil Company of California, once headed by Claude Brinninger, now President Nixon's secretary of commerce.

KHS–Saugerties...A Good Football Game by Any Name

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

Just for a minute, forget that it's Saugerties High School against Kingston High School Saturday at the Sawyer field. Let's call them Team "A" and Team "B" and see if this game is really worth all the excitement.

First, are we dealing with two good football teams? You bet we are. One club, the one with the 6-2 record, is having a truly remarkable year when you consider how many starters were lost from last year's squad and the quality of competition in the DCSL. The other team, the one with the 4-3 mark, has won two straight and has reached the point of productivity many have expected all season.

Second, are the teams evenly matched? Are they ever! Each is defense-oriented. Each has one spectacular defensive player. Each has been having trouble grinding out the yardage. Each has a so-so passing attack. Each has excellent coaching. What more can you ask?

Third, does this game have anything to do with the league race? It does indeed, because if front-running Ketcham loses to John Jay, certainly a possibility, and the right team wins our Team "A"-"B" game, there'll be a tie for the championship.

Need any more convincing? Now take off the masks and lo and behold it's Kingston vs. Saugerties. If that dosen't get your football blood boiling, nothing else will.

Let's take a look at how the teams stack up position-by-position:

OFFENSIVE LINE — Both teams have had trouble getting untracked. The success of each is vital due to the heavy reliance on running. The presence of Scott Wilson at guard and Mike Abate at tackle could give the Sawyers the edge.

QUARTERBACK — Another unsettled area. Nick Malgieri has won the full-time job from Wayne Bruyn at Saugerties, and Alan Greenspan has been awarded No. 1 from Dan Brown. Malgieri can do more than either of the two KHS signal callers, although he isn't much of a passer. Again, the emphasis is on the running game. If Kingston uses Raymond Gay at quarterback in throwing situations, Saugerties will know what's coming and besides, if Gay was that good he'd have been there all season. Give Saugerties the slight edge.

ENDS — John Dawson at split end and Tim Pillsworth at tight end give Kingston the decided advantage over Saugerties' Steve Wehr, Glen Richardson, Dave Tate, or Paul Van Blarcum. But will pass catching be that important.

RUNNING BACKS — Rate Kingston's Lyle Schuler and Saugerties' Sal Misasi even. Give KHS the edge on the combination of Steve Engelhardt and Dan Mahoney against Saugerties' Gary Schnell and Tom Hallion or Mark Stevens.

DEFENSIVE LINEMEN — Each team is strong. Saugerties is stronger. Scott Wilson, Bob Tammany, Mike Abate, and George Peterson create a tremendous pass rush and a solid wall against runs. Kingston's Art Shelightner, Steve Hannay, Lou Sasciaro, and Pillsworth are tough, but the nod goes to the Sawyers here.

LINEBACKERS — There's none better in this area than Bob Carey of Kingston. And teammates Billy Chaffin, Brian Shelightner and Chris Zanos aren't far behind. Doug Whiteford is all-star material for Saugerties and linebacking partners Tim Meggison, George Redder, and Misasi provide solid accompaniment. The edge goes to Kingston.

DEFENSIVE BACKS — Gay and Kevin McClogan of Kingston are among the best. Mark McElrath and Dale Cook are capable. Saugerties counters with Bruyn leading the way and Malgieri and Tom Hallion behind him. Both teams are in good shape in this area with Kingston getting the nod.

KICKING — Wilson is a strong punter, having boomed several in the 40-50 yard range. He also has kicked two field goals and three extra points. Kingston uses Joey Primo for punting and his boots though not always long, are almost always high enough to insure good coverage. Brian Shelightner does the place-kicking and has three extra points. The edge to Saugerties.

According to this unofficial rundown, Saugerties and Kingston are 2-2 on offense. Kingston is 2-1 on defense, and Saugerties has the kicking edge. That reads 4-4 for eight categories. Still think this won't be a close game?

EXTRA POINTS — A set of Dietz Stadium bleachers is scheduled to be shipped to Saugerties to handle the expected overflow crowd. When that crowd does overflow, it will be allowed to circle the field with ropes and police keeping matters in hand . . . . Unofficial DCSL stats show Kingston with 949 yards rushing and 250 yards passing: Saugerties with 950 yards rushing and 275 passing . . . . Kingston has 60 first downs, Saugerties 59 . . . . Kingston has intercepted 19 passes to Saugerties' eight swipes . . . . The Maroons lead the league in penalty yardage with 435. Saugerties is third with 345 . . . . . Schuler, with three TDs last week, leads in scoring with 48 points, four more than Mike Neborak of Ketcham. Misasi leads Saugerties with 30. . . . . Should Kingston win and lift its record to 7-2, it would make Badalto's four-year career record 18-17, over .500 for the first time. He was 0-8, then 6-3, and 5-4 . . . . Besides the John Jay-Ketcham game Saturday, the DCSL winds up with Roosevelt at Poughkeepsie and Beacon at Arlington.

Hoople Picks Kingston

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

HOOPLE MANOR

Egad, friends, would you believe that after this Saturday there will be only 37 shopping days left till Christmas. Jove! I must remember to order Martha's gift early from the jolly fellow — hehheh — lest he miss Hoople Manse while making his rounds.

But enough of that chit-chat and back to the business at hand. This is the week of the long-awaited Kingston-Saugerties game, or hadn't you heard? And of course the UCAL race ends in a blaze of glory with Wallkill, Ellenville, and Red Hook each shooting for a piece of the title.

The Kingston-Saugerties game has had my staff and I busy for over a week. The two teams are so evenly matched it was almost impossible for us to separate the winner from the loser, but true to the Hoople motto: "The difficult we do immediately, the impossible takes a little longer," we have — kaff-kaff — labored long and arduously to give you the winner! (Ed. note — That probably means he tossed a coin).

By the by, the Hoople System, dear friends, is purring along in its customary grand style and I report to you, somewhat modestly — heh-heh — that we have clicked at a .777 clip for high school games and a .745 norm for collegiate contests.

So now it's on to this week's forecast:

KINGSTON 8, SAUGERTIES 7

There . . . I've said it. You are quite aware, I'm sure, just how evenly matched these two teams are. You've been filled with the praises from both sides and the rest of the pre-game hoopla. Well, throw it all away, I say, because no matter how closely you try to figure out this contest it all comes down to one thing: the breaks. Who will pick up the first fumble? Who will intercept the first pass (if there are any passes thrown, that is)? Who will get off the first bad punt? My computer is sure that a break will make the difference. Last year we chose Kingston by a wide margin and Saugerties proved us incorrect. This year we go with Kingston again, not because of any feeling of Saugerties being a poorer football team, or because of Kingston being better. We just have one of those unexplainable feelings that this is KHS' year. (Ed. note: I guess he did flip a coin).

EL'NVILLE 14, RED HOOK 13

No less difficult a pick as was Saugerties-Kingston. Both teams have been playing real fine football for the last several weeks. Red Hook knows a win could mean a share of first place. But the Ellies know a win could mean first place all alone for the second straight year. I think the Blue Devils will make the Red Raiders turn blue.

WALLKILL 21, NEW PALTZ 14

Wallkill had better not walk on the field expecting New Paltz to roll over. The Hugies would love to disappoint their Southern neighbors and end the year on the plus side of .500. Wallkill, however, is completing its finest season and has gone too far to let it slip away now.

ONTEORA 13, MARLBORO 12

Another one of those feelings folks. Onteora has the passing game to score points on Marlboro's weak defense and I think there's enough spirit in Boiceville to want an escape from the UCAL cellar, something a win here can insure.

HIGHLAND 14, LIBERTY 0

Highland's three-game losing streak has done nothing to help my already superior record, heh-heh. Just think how great a 45-9-1 mark would be — unkumph! But I have no ill-will towards the Highlanders. I've picked them every week this season and absolutely refuse to change now. You can't teach an Old Boy Himself new tricks!

PINE BUSH 28, RONDOUT 0

No contest if Pine Bush plays as it has most of this season. A win gives the Bushmen an impressive 6-3 record. The Pine Bush team has the offense needed to move on Rondout's defense and the Ganders just don't have enough to get things going on PB. Record a rebuilding year in the Rondout column.

Now that you know what will happen scholastically Saturday, here's the lowdown on the college games.

The amazing Missouri Tigers, who have figured in two of the season's biggest upsets in beating Nebraska and losing to Colorado, will figure in another one. Yas, dear readers, I have sad news for the followers of the Oklahoma Sooners. Hannaba! Wottaburp, our Missouri stringer, assures us that the Tigers are planning to ambush the Sooners. In a real barn-buster Missouri will prevail, 24-20.

Elsewhere on the college scene it will be Air Force 28, Rutgers 20; Miami, Fla. 30, Army 10; Auburn 17, Miss. State 7; Dartmouth 26, Columbia 12; Cornell 13, Brown 7; Harvard 32, Princeton 21; Holy Cross 14, Syracuse 7; Northwestern 18, Indiana 14; Kansas 22, Colorado 15; Virginia 14, Maryland 10; Michigan 32, Illinois 7; Purdue 28, Minnesota 18; Nebraska 37, Iowa State 14.

Also, Ohio State 35, Michigan State 7; UCLA 39, Oregon 18; Penn State 23, North Carolina 14; Notre Dame 35, Pitt 14; USC 27, Stanford 15; Texas 25, Baylor 8; Tulane 26, Navy 14; and Penn 38, Yale 21, boola-boola.

Handle Bars Leading

KINGSTON

Handle Bars, averaging a shade under 100 points a game, lead the American Division of the YMCA "A" basketball league with a 5-1 record, a half game ahead of Canfield's. Hawkins Raiders (4-2) are setting the pace in the National Division.

In recent action, Joe Bush racked up 36 points to lead Sportsmen's Grill to a 76-68 win over Kingston Hospital. Dennis Gale had 18. Jon Yaple led the losers with 24 points and Larry Cook had 20.

Ex-UCCC star Coleman Link leads the league in the main scoring categories, with 186 points in seven games (26.4 average) and 188 rebounds for a 27 average. A.J. Murphy has best scoring average with 30 on 180 points in six games. Joe Bush is runnerup in rebounds with 127.

Will the Real Saints Stand Up Against the Rams?

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Will the real New Orleans Saints please stand up?

Tell the truth, now. Are the real Saints the team that sinned badly in its first two outings, losing 62-7 to the Atlanta Falcons and 40-3 to the Dallas Cowboys?

Or, are the real Saints the team that has won four out of its last five National Football League games scoring upsets over the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions, the Washington Redskins — yes, the same Washington team that went to the Super Bowl last season — and the Buffalo Bills.

The Saints go after upset No. 5 this Sunday in Los Angeles in a game that matches two coaches who were assistants for six seasons at Detroit — New Orleans' John North and the Rams' Chuck Knox.

RAMS 28, SAINTS 21

New Orleans 4-4 at Los Angeles 6-2 — If New Orleans was at home where it pulled off those four upsets then the Saints might pull off another one. But the Rams are two touchdown favorites and their two losses are by a total of three points. Nevertheless, the Saints and the points might be worthy of consideration.

VIKINGS 28, LIONS 17

Detroit 3-4-1 at Minnesota 8-0 — The unbeaten Vikings can win the National Conference Central title with a victory in this one. It would be the earliest clinching of the season. The Lions have lost 11 straight to the Vikings and are nine-point underdogs this time. When the two teams met earlier the Fearless Forecaster said it was time for Detroit to break the jinx. Not so this time.

RAIDERS 27, STEELERS 21

Pittsburgh 7-1 at Oakland 5-2 — The Raiders are rolling now and are favored by a touchdown. The Steelers barely got past Washington last week. Terry Bradshaw is out of action and Terry Hanratty has bruised ribs. So, who's going to argue with the oddsmakers on this one.

REDSKINS 23, 49ers 17

San Francisco 3-5 at Washington 5-3 — These two teams played for the NFC title in 1971 and this is their first meeting since. Neither the 49ers nor the Redskins have been world burners this year. The oddsmakers like Washington by 7½, but this game might end up being decided by which team doesn't try hard enough to lose. Or it might be a tie, but that would be the chicken way to pick it. So. . .

DOLPHINS 31, COLTS 14

Baltimore 2-6 at Miami 7-1 — The Dolphins have quietly been winning every week since their victory string was snapped early in the season by the Raiders. There's no reason why Miami, favored by 19, shouldn't win again handily.

FALCONS 27, EAGLES 24

ATLANTA 5-3 at Philadelphia 3-4-1 — The Falcons have won their last four while Philadelphia was winning three of their last four, which is something strange for the Eagles. The oddsmakers say the Falcons will win by 4½ points and that could be the hint of an upset. Nevertheless . . .

COWBOYS 35, GIANTS 14

dallas 5-3 vs. New York Giants 1-6-1 at New Haven — The Cowboys stomped the Giants 45-28 three weeks ago. This time Dallas is favored by only 10½ points and, wth the way the Giants have been playing, Dallas minus anything up to 15 points might be a steal.

BRONCOS 24, CHARGERS 13

San Diego 1-6-1 at Denver 3-3-2 — Ron Waller is the new San Diego coach and some times teams pull upsets with new coaches. But the Broncos are favored by 10½ and shouldn't lose this one.

BILLS 24, BENGALS 21

Cincinnati 4-4 at Buffalo 5-3 — The Bengals must bounce back from that 38-10 loss to the Cowboys while Buffalo has to recover from its defeat at the hands of New Orleans. Cincinnati is favored by 4½ but the Bills should recover sufficiently for a mild upset.

CARDINALS 31, PACKERS 21

St. Louis 3-4-1 at Green Bay 2-4-2 — The Pack Is Back. . . back in last place in offense in the NFC. The oddsmakers favor Green Bay by 1½ for some reason. Maybe they figure it's time the Packers started living up to their preseason press clippings. But a look at the Cardinal offensive statistics compared to the Packer offense should be enough to call this one an upset, no matter what the defensive statistics are.

JETS 31, PATRIOTS 17

New England 2-6 at New York Jets 2-6 — Bobby Howfield's three field goals gave the Jets a victory when these two American Conference East teams met earlier. The Patriots have won two games already this season and that in itself is quite an accomplishment.

CHIEFS 28, BEARS 21

Chicago 3-5 at Kansas City 4-3-1 — This is the Monday night game and marks the first ever regular season meeting between the Bears and the Chiefs. The oddsmakers like Kansas City by 4½.

OCS Field Hockey Team Snaps Long Raider Skein

RED HOOK

Onteora High School's girls varsity field hockey team handed Red Hook High its first defeat in six seasons to complete their season with a record of 7 wins, 2 losses and 2 ties. OCS finished 5-1-1 in the Ulster County Athletic League.

Ann Schroeder scored twice and Colleen Duffy once for Onteora. The OCS defense was so overpowering that goalie Peggy Fitzsimmons was required to make only one save, in a game completely dominated by Onteora.

"I knew that we had the potential to be a topnotch team and this game proved it, "said Coach Carol Okoren. "This game proved that when they all played to their potential they were unbeatable. I was very proud and pleased with this total team effort."

Onteora players on offense included Lee Houseman, co-captain; Kathy Flynn, Ann Schroeder, Linda Williams, Sue Schlegel and Colleen Duffy. The defense, anchored by co-captain Linda Faulkner, also featured Jeanne May, Tina Fisher, Ann Louise Garrison, Sandy Winnie, Anita Shultis, Peggy Fitzsimmons.

3-Way Tie In TF Loop

The SAA Touch Football League has ended in an unprecedented three-way tie for the 1973 pennant. The triple deadlock creates a two game playoff for the title.

Alpha Cement needed only a tie to win the title outright, but permitted Holy Cross to beat them, 19-13, after building up a 13-0 quarter lead. The winning HC touchdown came with 35 seconds remaining. Alpha, however, took the next kickoff and advance to the two-yard line before time ran out.

Palenville's Pride helped set up the triple tie by surprising Gunjah Warriors 18-7. Three key interceptions by Joe O'Brien set up the Pride win. He ran two of them across, from the 14 and 4 yard lines. The third set up a 20-yard TD aerial from Dennis Lucas to Jim Arnold.

Gunjah's checked Hertel Enterprise, 20-6, in what was a must game for the Warriors. It was 6-6 after three quarters but Gunjah quarterback Vic Tummillo ran across three touchdowns on keepers from the 17, 13 and 25 yard line. Robby Andreassen added a safety.

Because Holy Cross scored most points during the season, it was awarded a first round bye in the playoffs. Gunjah Warriors and Alpha meet in the first game, with the winner taking on Holy Cross in the championship finals.

The A Division race resulted in a two-way tie for first place.

Les Hildebrandt of Alpha gathered in most TD passes with 19. Bill Noonan had 17, Ray Every 5, Butch Myer 3. Craig Wrolsen paced the scorers with nine touchdowns. Hal Johnson had seven and Tom Beyer six.

Raiders, Hawks Win

SAUGERTIES

The Raiders and the Hawks remained unbeaten in the Monday Division of te SAA Junior Basketball League. The Raiders got 24 points from Ed LaTourette to help down the Knicks, 51-43 and nullify a 22-point effort by Pat Crane. The Hawks whipped the Warriors, 31-25 for their third straight win and stayed tied for first.

Jim Hitchcock poured in 24 points to aid the Rockets to a 41-22 decision over the Pistons in other Monday results. It was the Pistons' third loss while the Rockets climbed to third place with a 1-1 record.

In the Tuesday Division, Mike Miller led the league-leading Lakers to a 42-26 rout of the Nets with 22 points. The Bucks moved into a second place tie by downing the Royals, 47-42, leveling the teams off with 2-1 slates. Mike Dickman pumped in 20 for the winners.

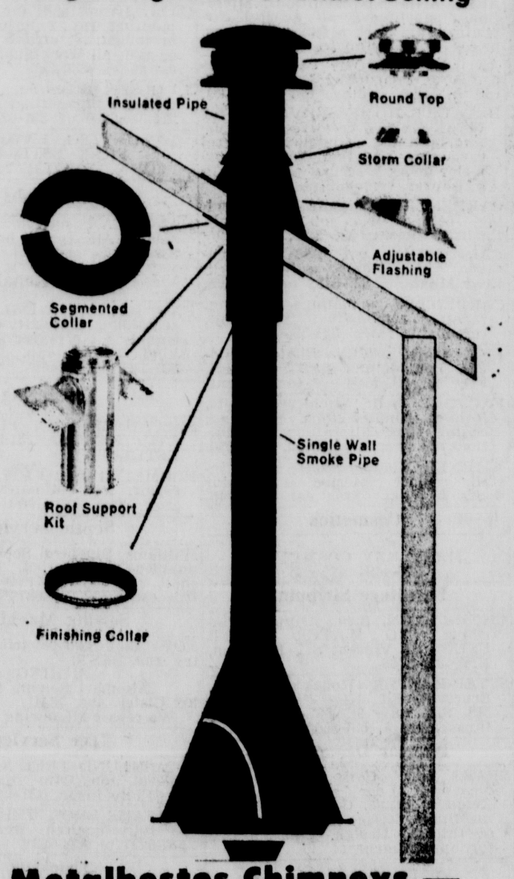

The Bullets crushed the winless Celtics, 45-15 to halt a two-game slide in other Tuesday action.

BEFORE WE SELL YOU ANYTHING, WE'D LIKE TO ASK YOU A FEW QUESTIONS.

The guy who runs your local American Parts Store will probably ask you a few questions before he sells you an auto part or accessory.

He'll ask you these questions because he wants to make sure you get what you need rather than what you think you need. So he might sell you the part you asked for. Then again, he might suggest a better way to solve your problem.

Listen to him. He's been in the auto parts business for a long time. And it's his only business.

Let's face it, when you're fixing your own car you need all the help you can get.

Members of Faculty Stay Quite Active

NEW PALTZ

Faculty members of the Department of History at the State University College at New Paltz are active in scholarly affairs during the current academic year.

Dr. Laurence M. Hauptman, assistant professor, presented a paper last month on "Governor Theodore Roosevelt and the Indians of New York State" at the annual meeting of the Western History Association in Fort Worth, Tex.

Dr. Martin E. Lodge, associate professor, has been asked to comment on two papers to be presented in December at the annual symposium of the New Jersey Historical Commission in Trenton.

Dr. Donald M. Roper, associate professor, will deliver a paper this month on "The Supreme Court of New York State in the Early 19th Century" at a meeting in Chicago of the American Society for Legal History.

Dr. Robert H. Van Meter, assistant professor, has been asked to deliver a paper in February on "Herbert Hoover and the Reconstruction of Europe, 1918-21" at the celebration of the Hoover Centennial at the Hoover Library, West Branch, Iowa.

Richard Varbero, assistant professor, is scheduled to offer a paper this month on "Philadelphia's South Italians and the Roman Catholic Church" at the annual conference of the Italian-American Historical Association.

Dr. Howard Vernon, associate professor, acted as a moderator last month for a panel on "Land Policy in Colonial New York" at a meeting of the History Forum, sponsored by Duquesne University in Pittsburgh.

Sloop Meeting Is Planned

KINGSTON

An organization meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration Inc. will be held Sunday, Nov. 11, at 6 p.m. at 61 Wurts Street Kingston.

The Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. is the organization that owns the sloop Clearwater, which sails the Hudson River dramatizing the need for protection of the ecology of the Hudson. The Clearwater brings folk music, craft and art exhibits, and science projects to the communities along the banks of the Hudson. Last month, the Clearwater was docked in Kingston for several days, and loaded pumpkins for the Second Annual Pumpkin Sail.

If an active Ulster County Sloop Club can be formed at the meeting this Sunday, plans can be made for a variety of programs for the coming year. Anyone interested in the ecological, historical, or recreational aspects of the Hudson should plan to attend the meeting which will be held in the home of Peter Grant, current Ulster County Co-Ordinator for the Sloop group.

Course Set

Applicants for drivers' licenses will have an opportunity to take a state-mandated three-hour instruction course on Tuesday, Nov. 13, in Room 301 of High School on Washington Avenue Extension. A $3 fee is required, and interested persons may register by telephoning the district administration office.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, November 10

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get yourself on a very secure financial basis so you will have plenty of money in the days ahead. Find out how to make your money go farther.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make collections, pay bills and talk over with experts how to become more successful in the days ahead. Don't be impulsive or you get into trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve health and appearance, then take advantage of some opportunity to have a good time socially. Get shopping done early.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get right facts to improve conditions and make some outlet successful. Help some friend who is having troubles. Don't broadcast it around, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Gad about with good friends at the hobbies mutually enjoyable. State your basic aims and you can be helped in gaining them. Avoid gossip.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle duties in the outside world without wasting time. Improve your credit. Learn from some influential person how to become more successful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do research work now to make your outlets more successful in the future. Plan that trip that will bring you pleasure as well as success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep promises made conscientiously. Enjoy amusements with the one you love. Deepen bond between you and be happy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show associates you are fulfilling your share of any bargains made. Get into work necessary in regard to some civic matter without further dealy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Improve your efficiency and clear your desk for bigger things ahead. Improve health now for it could cost you much more later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget anxieties and go out and have a delightful time. Perfect a hobby. Enjoy the company of some person of whom you are fond.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get tasks done at home and forget that desire for fun until they are completed. Improve harmony and happiness there. Show true devotion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day for shopping, errands, financial affairs that are important. Go over any reports or statements that are vital to your welfare.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . . he or she will be an occult-loving individual who will always act in a magnetic way though appearing to be slow and determined, and will get excellent results, provided you teach early to reach right decisions through good judgment. Much money can be made and education should be slanted toward banking, lecturing, the ministry and the like. Much love of humanity here and innate kindness.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DRUGS: (Q.) I really wondered how to put this into words but here it is. Many of my truly best friends are into drugs. They turn on right in school.

This is a senior high. I can't tell a counselor or anyone in school because people hate finks. If you were in a situation like this, what would you do? -Worried in Pennsylvania.

(A.) I would hunt for new friends who are not into drugs and not about to be. I have no doubt the school authorities know without your telling them what is going on. Being too close to those involved might cast suspicion onto you.

CHAUVINISM: (Comment) Nowadays if a man or boy doesn't agree 100 per cent with female liberation, he is called a male chauvinist pig. I know a few girls I think should be called chauvinist sows. They are awful.—Disgusted in Delaware.

(A.) The word "chauvinism" comes from Nicolas Chauvin, a soldier who overdid his allegiance to and admiration for Napoleon.

A chauvinist overdoes things. Girls as well as boys can overdo things. Girls as well as boys should avoid overdoing things.

I wish I knew what your specific complaint about these specific girls is.

Reese Pilots Slight Deception

Reese ducked the first club. He didn't like the lead and hoped that West would shift, but West continued the suit which Reese won with the club ace. It isn't hard to see the correct continuation by declarer. He must play two rounds of trumps and then lead diamonds. If the player with the high trump holds three or more, declarer will be able to discard his last club on the last diamond. You can also see that East holds three spades and two diamonds and that this play is not going to work.

It worked for Terence. He played the ace and king of trumps and ran diamonds but he found a way to persuade East not to ruff the third one.

It wasn't really difficult. He cashed his ace of diamonds; led a diamond to dummy's king and continued with the jack. It appeared to East that West was holding the queen so East discarded. Now Terence went back to dummy with the ace of hearts, got the club discard he needed and wound up losing one trump, one heart and one club.

According to Energy Advisor Love

Gasoline Rationing Expected by Next Spring

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top energy advisor says nationwide gasoline rationing probably will be imposed by next spring.

John A. Love, director of the Energy Policy Office, emphasized that the White House has not made any decision whether or not to order rationing for the first time since World War II.

But Love said in an interview Thursday his personal opinion was that gasoline rationing "will be pretty likely" by next spring, the start of the vacation-recreation season when Americans do most of their driving.

If so, every vehicle owner can expect to be applying to a local rationing board, come next March or April, for tickets entitling him to purchase limited amounts of gasoline depending on the priority assigned to his use of it.

In an address to the nation Wednesday night, President Nixon asked Congress to adopt legislation similar to that proposed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., giving the President clear authority to order fuel rationing.

House and Senate spokesmen predicted the passage of such authority by mid-December.

But Nixon soft-peddled the likelihood of using it. He said rationing might be necessary only if a multitude of other measures fail to cope with the growing energy shortage.

An unannounced contingency plan calling for local rationing boards and issuance of ration coupons has been ready since last April 12.

Love said that remains the plan for rationing unless a better idea turns up. The Interior Department was studying the problems of organizing what he said would be a large bureaucracy, he said.

Love told a newsman Wednesday a decision about rationing must be made by December or January at the latest and it would take about 60 days to set up the rationing system.

"Regardless of what happens in the Middle East," Love said referring to the Arab nations' denial of oil to friends of Israel, "I can't help but think that we are going to be in a worse position next year in relation to (gasoline) demands than we were this last year, by far."

Last summer scattered gasoline shortages showed up in the temporary closing of some service stations, and oil experts say reduced driving by the public apparently averted the worst shortage.

Love said the imposition of a high tax on gasoline to discourage consumption — perhaps as much as 30 cents per gallon on top of current prices — was being considered as a possible alternative to rationing. But Love himself objected that such a tax would be "quite regressive," placing a heavy financial burden on those who must buy gasoline for their jobs or businesses, and leaving the wealthy free to burn gasoline unnecessarily if they are willing to pay the price.

Congress Taking Fast Action To Combat Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional machinery has begun to move swiftly on President Nixon's call for new legislative authority to deal with the energy crisis.

Following up the President's announcement of his fuel-saving program to the nation Wednesday and a presidential message to Congress Thursday, members of the Senate Interior Committee were meeting today to edit a bill into form for a vote.

Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he hoped to complete "markup" of the bill today. He expected the only big fight would be from some senators, chiefly from oil-producing states, to get a clause in the bill taking federal controls off natural gas prices at the point of production.

"Our target is to get the bill to the floor of the Senate Tuesday for debate and a vote," Jackson told UPI after a nonstop 11-hour hearing Thursday.

The bill will be a combination of the President's proposals and Jackson's views in a bill he introduced Oct. 18.

One decision Jackson made Thursday was to make the bill's language stronger on bringing the nation to the brink of gasoline rationing to consumers. Nixon regarded that as a last resort, but Jackson considers it inevitable.

Nixon and Jackson are agreed on the main points of the legislation to authorize the President to cut down on use of energy in the private and government sectors, order a national highway speed limit, force power plants to stop converting from coal to oil, and ease air quality rules so that high-pollution fuels can be used until the emergency passes.

Nixon said in his message to Congress: "It is my hope that rationing of energy products will never be required, but if circumstances dictate there should be no impediment to swift action."

Lee C. White, former FPC chairman and now a spokesman for some consumer groups, told the committee it was acting in too much haste.

"You are about to enact a bill giving sweeping authority to the President. I think you ought to look very carefully at each provision even if it a day's delay," White said.

"I am not trying to ram it through," Jackson told UPI. "But this could have gone weeks. Every day we lose, the harder the adjustment will be later.

"I don't like it myself. Jeez—all this government control," Jackson said. "But this is an emergency."

Fulbright to U.S., Russia: 'Exert Pressure on Israel'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., today called on the United States and the Soviet Union to persuade and pressure Israel to give up Arab territory conquered since 1967 in exchange for a superpower guarantee of her security.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the precise terms of a peace settlement for the Middle East would have to be worked out in protracted negotiations.

"But the general requirements are clear," Fulbright said in a Senate speech. "The recovery of lost lands by the Arabs and security for Israel."

Fulbright said: "It is up to us, and up to the Russians, working through the United Nations, to apply whatever degree of persuasion we can, or whatever degree of pressure we must, to bring about a compromise peace based upon the principles of the Security Council Resolution of November, 1967.

"It would then be the responsibility of the Soviet Union and the United States, through the United Nations, to guarantee the settlement."

The 1967 U.N. resolution calls for a peace settlement based on Israel's withdrawal to her pre-war borders in return for guarantees of her security.

In his speech, Fulbright censured critics of U.S.-U.S.S.R. detente and said "the logical implication of the crisis of late October is the need to strengthen Soviet-American cooperation.

"What the detractors cannot seem to get through their heads is that there is no alternative except endless conflict," Fulbright said. "We and the Russians have to get along with each other, because in matters of world peace, neither can get along without the other."

Fulbright said that in achieving a middle east peace settlement "concession — great concessions—will be required on both sides."
